ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks and deep sense of gratitude to all those persons who contributed in many ways to the success of this thesis and made it an unforgettable experience for me.

At this moment of accomplishment, first of all, I pay homage to my guide, Professor Debjani Sengupta, Former Head of the Department of Education, University of Calcutta for her guidance, support and encouragement, failing which it would not be possible for me to complete my research work. Under her guidance, I successfully overcame many difficulties and learned a lot. Her unflinching courage and conviction will always inspire me, and I hope to continue to work with her thoughts.

I would also like to express my sincere thanks and gratitude to my teachers and staff members of Department of Education, University of Calcutta for their kind help in various stages.

I am grateful to Dr. Anindita Chakraborty, Associate Professor in Economics, Madras School of Economics; Dr. Arup Kumar Chottopadhyay, Dean of Arts and Commerce faculty & Professor in Economics, Burdwan University; Dr. P A Thomas, Associate Professor in Psychology, University of Madras; Professor Debasis Mandal, Professor in Economics, Vidyasagar University; Dr. Subrata Mukherjee, Associate Professor in Economics, Institute of Development Studies, Kolkata; Dr. Purnendu Sekher Das, Professor in Economics, Vinod Gupta School of Management, IIT, Kharagpur and Dr. Buddhadev Ghosh, Economic Research Unit, ISI, Kolkata for sharing their knowledge that influenced the work.

I am grateful to Dr. Anindita Chakraborty, Associate Professor in Economics, Madras School of Economics; Dr. Arup Kumar Chottopadhyay, Dean of Arts and Commerce faculty & Professor in Economics, Burdwan University; Dr. P A Thomas, Associate Professor in Psychology, University of Madras; Professor Debasis Mandal, Professor in Economics, Vidyasagar University; Dr. Subrata Mukherjee, Associate Professor in Economics, Institute of Development Studies, Kolkata; Dr. Purnendu Sekher Das, Professor in Economics, Vinod Gupta School of Management, IIT, Kharagpur and Dr. Buddhadev Ghosh, Economic Research Unit, ISI, Kolkata for sharing their knowledge that influenced the work.

I am also grateful to all my colleagues and staff members of V.T.T. College, Midnapur, West Bengal for their support and constant encouragement to complete my research work.

I owe a large debt to my extended family, particularly my parents, Mr. Subal Chandra Dandapat and Mrs. Bithika Dandapat for their encouragement; and to my in-laws Late Mr. Sunil Kumar Das and Mrs. Dipali Das for their unfailing support. Words fail me to express my appreciation to my wife Chandrani who really comes first for her love, companionship, confidence, discernment, sacrifices, judgment and encouragement. Thank you for the faith you had in me; you helped me stay on track. Thanks to our daughter, MOHOR, you are the source of our inspiration in life.

And finally, many thanks to all my friends and loved ones who in diverse ways gave generously of their time, knowledge, support and prayers throughout my academic journey. Special thanks to: Research Participant Students of Vidyasager University, The Librarians of different Institutions, Dr. Abdul Rahim, Dr. Ashis Kumar Gupta, Dr. Biswajit Sen, Dr. Manoranjan Bhowmick, Mr. Biman Koley, Mr. Pintu Majhi & Dr. Sanchaita Basu. May God richly bless you of all.

26 December, 2012

(Asis Kumar Dandapat)