Contents

Introduction Page 6

Section I. The Enlightenment and Violence: paths to national modernization

1.1 The Eighteenth-century French Enlightenment: Deism and the world as a mechanical pattern. Between secularism and absolute knowledge. Page 23
1.2 The background to the problem in post-Reformation religious wars. Between tolerance and Providence. Page 39
1.3 John Locke and the social context of the English Revolution: early modernity between democracy and salvation. Page 47
1.4 The French Revolution as the defining paradigm of modernity: 1791 and the problem of innocence. Page 88
1.5 The eighteenth century German experience, the romantic revolt and counter-Enlightenment. Page 110
1.6 The experience of early modern nation-state construction, between Asia and Europe: Akbar’s ‘Universal Peace’ (Sul-i Kul) in its relevance to the Enlightenment. Page 123

Section II. Multiple enlightenments: the heritage of Enlightenment in modern national movements.

1.1 The Ottoman-Turkish experience of Enlightenment. Page 144
1.2 Secular democracy and the heritage of non-violence in the Indian National Movement Page 192
1.3 Iranian Enlightenment: struggle for multi-cultural democracy and its demise. Page 290

Bibliography Page 341