ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is with a deep and sincere sense of gratitude that I acknowledge the indefatigable encouragement, the unflagging co-operation, the enlightening criticism and selfless and diligent patience of one and all who have directly or indirectly helped this thesis of mine to see the light of success.

I am extremely grateful to my guide Dr. (Mrs.) Alaka S. Gadgil, reader, Department of Geography, University of Poona. Her guidance, unending perseverance and valuable critical suggestions have helped me immensely throughout my course work. I would like to record that any success the present work may have, is largely owed to her.

I wish to express my gratitude and appreciation to Dr. S. M. Virmani, principal scientist (Agroclimatology) and Dr. Piara Singh, Senior soil scientist in ICRISAT for all their assistance and guidance. A special thank to Dr. Virmani who was of great help during my visit to Hyderabad. I shall always remember the warmth and cordiality he extended to me.

I would like to acknowledge my deepest gratitude to Dr. S. C. Gupte previous Vice Chancellor of University of Poona for the constant encouragement and the permission he gave me to do Ph.D course in the University of Poona, India.

I am immensely grateful to the Head of the Department of Geography, University of Poona and all my Professors of the same department, especially Dr. V. S. Kale, previous Head of the Department of Geography for the constant encouragement and valuable suggestions during the course.

I thank I.M.D. for providing the necessary data for the research region. Especially Dr. A. Choudhary previous director, India Meteorological Department, Pune and Dr. H. B. Das. Director for the interest and help, they have rendered me.

I also thank to Mr. Anil N. Kale scientific Assistant in I.M.D. for his assistance in computer facilities during my research work.

I am very much obliged to my parents who always encouraged me throughout my life for higher studies.

I am very thankful to my husband Dr. R. Mirhassani and my two sons who stood by me in my times of need and the constant encouragement and help they gave me during the study period.

I am grateful to the non-teaching staff of the Department of Geography University of Poona, especially Miss. C. J. Patil, Mr. A. N. Deshpande and Mr. H. R. Munagekar for the co-operation and help I always received from them.

Finally I thank Mr. Pangarkar and Mr. G.D. Walvekar for their cartographic work, Mrs. Vaishali M. Bongale for typing the thesis and all who have helped me immersely in this work.

Fooroughsadat Vojdani