With the progress of the society it is the need of the hour to keep sight over the rights of female, who constitute half of the world’s population, but still suffering under the course of discrimination. Gender inequality facets in different forms among which the most tedious one is effective property rights. The disparity in property rights relating to gender, continuing from ancient times and women are the great sufferer.

The present work seeks extensively to analyze the various aspects of the law relating to Hindu women’s right to property under various legal provisions, such as the Constitution of India, international and national instruments, legislative enactments, etc., and specially under the Hindu Succession Act, 1956 and The Hindu Succession (Amendment) Act, 2005.

One of the main aim of the present study is to analyze the applicability of Hindu Succession Act in protecting female’s right over property in practice, with the help of collected attitude of population by way of survey.

I am extremely grateful and indebted to my guide and supervisor Dr. A. K. Sinha for his able guidance, insightful suggestions, tremendous inspiration, unending support and encouragement in course of the execution of the present research study in spite of his preoccupation with his onerous academic responsibilities and assignment.

I would like to express my gratitude to the Dean & Head of the P.G. Department of Law of Gauhati University, Prof. (Dr.) Ramesh Chandra Borpatragohain and other Faculty members of the department Prof. (Dr.) S. Rajkhowa, Dr. S. Deka, Associate Professor, Dr. A. Barua, Assistant Professor.

I am thankful to the staff of the University Law College Library, K. K. Handiqui Library, Gauhati University, the Indian Law Institute (New Delhi), Library of Law Department of Banaras Hindu University (Banaras) and Sri Narayana Rao Memorial National Law Library the NLSIU, (Bangalore).

Finally, and most of all I am deeply indebted to my father D. K. Hazarika, my mother L. Hazarika and brother S. K. Hazarika without whose support this work will not be completed.

My special acknowledgment goes to all the people who helped me in my research work.
