ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Any accomplishment requires the effort of many people and this work is not different. I wish to express my gratitude to each and every individual whose contribution has helped in the completion of this thesis. A ‘Sincere Thank You’ is the least I can say to express my gratitude to everyone who have helped me in ways - big and small.

At the outset, I have the humble privilege to express my deep sense of gratitude to my honourable, esteemed teacher, guide and mentor, Prof. D. N. Jena (P.G. Department of Sociology, Utkal University) whose uninterrupted encouragement has sustained me through this work. Sir’s rich experience and knowledge has constantly illuminated the areas of darkness in my understanding. His diligent guidance along with constant flow of inspiration and unflinching dynamism are beyond the scope of formal acknowledgment.

I owe a special thanks to Sj. Brindaban Ch. Swain, Former S.O of academic section Utkal University for his kind help, advice and continuous encouragement.

Bhimbadar Mishra of the ‘BDA’ and Prafulla Bhunya of ‘Janagancna Bhawan’ gave their invaluable help in accumulating data about the wards and the city, for which I am greatly thankful to them. I shall be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge the great debt I owe to all my teachers and staff of sociology department for their kind co-operation.
I owe a debt of gratitude to all the employed women who answered my questions forbearingly and were understanding regarding the need to co-operate with the researcher.

My deep sense of gratitude goes to Sri T. Govindan (Aappan) and Smt. K. Gouri (Elayamma) for their care and support. I thank Sandeep and Sandhya for their help and inspiration. I am most thankful to Sri M. Ravi and Sapna Ravi for their encouragement and support. A special thanks to Anjali for her love and active participation.

I am most grateful to Liju for her help, active participation and encouragement which are unforgettable.

A special thanks to my husband Sri P. Pradeepan, whose patience and support was instrumental in accomplishing this task.

I wish to express my gratitude to my dearest father for being the perennial source of encouragement. Whose advice, help and blessings have enabled me to complete my work. My mother’s aspirations and love has been my greatest inspiration, for which I am most thankful to her.

A special thanks to Sri Jitendriya Mansingh for his untiring and sincere effort in typing the materials in time. Which no doubt has helped me to compile this study in the shortest possible time.

Many persons have directly or indirectly helped me to complete the study. As it would be impossible to acknowledge them individually, I express my sincere thanks to all of them.

Ultimately, I am alone responsible for any inadvertent error that may be there in the work.

SANITA KANATHIL