REFERENCES

Blatchford, R (1997). ‘Reading is Fundamental’ and the SLA unite for reading : putting books free into homes [Project launched in the UK] Sch Libr. 45; F’97, 4-5.

Coleman, D (1985). Thirteen years of progress...? Community Librarian. 2; 3-4, 12-4.

Eggert, G (1994). Fontes de informacao e a questao de genero no cotidiano da mulher (dona de casa) <Information sources and Fotheringham, R (1996). Knowing your community: determining needs, evaluating services. KWAZNAPLIS. 2; 1, Jan/Feb'96, 3-5.

Hensley, K and others (1997). Providing library services to a remote non-traditional program for health career students : the Kellogg experience (funded outreach by East Tennessee State University Johnson, W B and others (1996). Senior services and libraries [at the Jackson-George Regional Library System] charts. il. Miss Libr. 60; Spr’96, 3-6.

Koeford, I (1977). Role of the public library in a grass root democracy; an attempt to provide the public with better information on local and central government activities. Scand Pub Lib Q 10; 4, 125-30.

Koncelkova, L (1998). Vysledky prieskumu zaujmovych aktivit deti mladsieho skolskeho veku so zameranim na citanie [Results of a survey of interests of primary school children with emphasis on their reading habits. Kniznice a Informacie. 30; 3, 97-102. tbls.
refs.

McAbee, M (1996). Hearing voices : a content analysis of young adult novels according to Gilligan’s theory of women’s moral Mohammed, Zakari (1986). Public libraries and rural information services in Nigeria. Library Focus. 4; 12, 85-93. ref.

Paavonheimo, J (1992). Kirjasto aultaa aikuiso piskelijaa <the library is of use to the adult student>. Kirjastolehti. 85; 5, 125.

Revista, R H Cortes (1993). Impacto de la biblioteca publica en la satisfaccion de las necesidades de informacion de la comunidad. [Impact of the public library on the satisfaction of community needs.] Interamericana de Bibliotecologia. 16; 2, Jul-Dec'93, 85-100, refs.

