ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The completion of this thesis is a matter of great satisfaction for me because it was written during the most turbulent period of my life. Struggling against heavy odds, if I could finish this work up to my satisfaction, it is because of the constant support and encouragement I received from my family, my teachers, my friends and well wishers. I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to them. Much of the credit for completion of this thesis goes to my supervisor Dr. Kanti Bajpai without whose patient guidance and scholarly companionship, I could not have accomplished this task. I am thankful to other teachers of my Centre as well.

I am grateful to those serving and retired police officers from the CRPF, the BSF, the ITBP and the NSG who not only provided me with invaluable information and study material but also gave me new insights to understand this subject.

My parents, wife and younger brothers Sudhir, Lalit, Shailendra, Raju and Dwijendra always gave me moral support kept me free from familial responsibilities. I am especially thankful to my wife Rupa and my little son for the kind of faith they put in me. Back in JNU my friends Shyamanand, Devender, Kalikanandji, Ajay Pathak, Awadesh, Manish and Subhash helped me at various stages of this work. I am thankful to them.

Much of my work was done in the libraries of the JNU, the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, the IDSA and the Bureau of Police Research and Development and I express thanks for the cooperation that was extended to me by the staff of these libraries. Thanks are also due to the University Grants Commission for providing me Research Scholarship in the absence of which it would have been difficult for me to continue this research.

I am thankful to Mr. Om Prakash who typed this thesis so efficiently.
