ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Shaheena Tarannum for her continuous support during my PhD study and related research, for her patience, motivation, and immense knowledge. Her guidance helped me throughout my research and while writing this thesis. I could not have imagined having a better supervisor and mentor for my study.

Besides my supervisor, I am thankful to the Director of the Advanced Centre for Women’s Studies, Prof. Nighat Ahmad, for helping me in my research work. I am immensely thankful to all the teachers of the centre for making me understand the subject which was new for me. Thanks to all the non-teaching staff of the centre as well.

I am also grateful to my teachers from the Department of Mass Communication especially Prof. M. Shafey Kidwai, Dr. Pitabhas Pradhan, and Dr. G.K. Sahu who lend me a helping hand whenever I was in need.

On the personal front I would firstly and most importantly like to thank my soulmate, Meraj Ahmad, who not only encouraged me to pursue this course but also helped me a lot personally and professionally to complete it as well. This research study could not have been possible if we both would not have been feminist enough. I hope to set an example to my juniors and future generation especially those who study Gender Studies/Women’s Studies by making them observe the way a man cannot only be a pillar of strength for a woman but can also be adjusting, flexible, and caring which are only considered to be feminine traits. Life can only become fulfilling when both the partners share the burden of responsibilities equally and feel proud to do so.

I am also thankful to my parents, Anjum Kidwai and Musaid Kidwai, who not only help me guide through this research work but have always guided me in every phase of my life. Thanks to my sisters, Farina and Zaara, who unknowingly helped me by indulging in long discussions which eventually enhanced the quality of my thesis. I am grateful to Imran Bhai and Subhadeep for encouraging me always. And of course thank you to my sweet little daughter, Zoey, for always relieving me from the anxiety and pressures of the research by indulging me with some sweet games with her. I really wish one day my research study could be of some benefit to her as well.
A special thanks to all my close friends Sumbul Khan, Khadijah Aayeen, Uzma Chaudhry, Loveeza Khan, Samreen Shaukat, and Shireen Tabassum for lending me their ideas and viewpoints from time to time. Thanks to my buddies Behjat Moni, Shahin Anjum, and Wasfia Jalali for helping me write the research papers related to the study.

And a sincere thanks to all the new friends I made in these few years at the centre including Deeba Abrar, Rida Afreen, Zeba Aslam Khan, and Mohd. Nadeem Khan for being here with me and bearing with my tantrums always. Thanks a lot Sameera aapa and Mohd. Tariq Iqbal for their support and guidance throughout the research study. And thanks to all the other research scholars who shared their viewpoints while various discussions at the centre and enlightening me even at my pre-submission session.
