ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A long journey has been nurtured in one way or the other by more people than I can acknowledge here...

My mother, the fountainhead of my inspiration and aspirations; to your voyage in life and for always being you – my salutations!

To my father – for his faith and enthusiasm in life and to his love I owe this work and everything precious – my warmest and profoundest gratitude.

The opportunity and motivation to pursue this research was sparked off by an insightful meeting with Prof. Dawa Norbu and what was at that time only an interesting idea, eventually evolved into this research work. It has indeed been a privilege to have done this work under the supervision of Prof. Norbu. My foremost thanks must go to him for the material, intellectual and personal encouragement at every step of this work. I owe it to his kind recommendations, that I could get the rare opportunity and privilege of interviewing His Holiness The XIV Dalai Lama to seek clarifications for this work. I express my deepest gratitude to him for guiding me with enthusiasm all the way and for having steered me towards seeing meanings that had hitherto gone unnoticed.

Prof. Warikoo has been supportive in very many ways and I take this opportunity to thank him.

I owe much gratitude to Prof. Dipankar Gupta, Prof. Bharadwaj and Dr.Vibha Chatturvedi for their support and goodwill. To Dr. Alka Acharya and Dr.Sabaree Mitra for their warmth and encouragement – a big thanks! I would also like to thank Prof. O.P. Bakshi with whom I have had some fruitful discussions during the early phases of this research.

Interactions with Prof. Dan Swearer through e-mail helped resolving some theoretical issues. I would like to thank him for his suggestions.

My teachers in Panjab University: Prof. Rekha Jhanji, whose quest as a human being and as an aesthetician in the complete sense of the word, has always been very inspiring; Dr. Gautam, Prof. Dharmendra Goel, Prof. Bhuwan Chandel, Dr. Veena Kapoor – profound thanks to you all.

Chief among the many debts I have incurred during the formulation and completion of this work, is that owed to the various institutions and the libraries I could access, as well as to the persons connected with them: At the Library of Tibetan Works and Archives (LTWA), Mr. Pema Yeshi, The Chief Librarian has been a great help and so has Norzum. Many thanks to Des Raj who took very good care of me during my various stays at the "Writers Home" in Dharamsala, Prof. K. Angrup at Tibet House Library in New Delhi, has given valuable suggestions. I cherish his affection and friendship. Doboom
Tulku Lama, Director of Tibet House, has been exceedingly helpful and I have had an occasional interaction with him, for which I would like to thank him. I would also like to thank Mr. Wangyal at Tibet House for all his help; Mr. Tsering Drakpa, The Registrar at The Central Institute of Higher Tibetan Studies at Sarnath (CIHTS- Sarnath), has been extremely accommodating and helpful and I take this opportunity to thank him. Dr. Jampa Samten at Shantaraksita Library, CIHTS-Sarnath, has been the exemplary librarian. I am indeed very grateful to him. The Library Staff at CIHTS Library were very helpful, particularly Dr. S.N. Singh and Mr. Kusuwaha. Lalman made my stay at the CIHTS guesthouse very comfortable and memorable – due thanks! Tsering Tsomo at the Tibetan Parliamentary and Policy Research Centre provided some of the material published by them – and I thank her; Dr. Raji Ramanan and Manjurika Sevak at the Foundation for Universal Responsibility of His Holiness The Dalai Lama have been particularly helpful; I take this opportunity to thank them both. I also thank the following Libraries – The Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, The Central Secretariat Library, The British Council Library, The American Centre Library and The Jawaharlal Nehru University Library.

I am indeed very grateful to Tenzin Geyche Tethong, Secretary to His Holiness The Dalai Lama, for having taken out time from his tight schedule for discussions. His understanding of the Dalai Lama’s thought by virtue of his long association with him and his ability to respond to my various queries has gone a long way in tightening my arguments.

Tenzin Taklha was kind enough to be a part of the brain – storming session with Tenzin Geyche Tethong and myself. I take this opportunity to express my gratitude.

Many thanks to Lhakdor La for his kind disposition and his lovely sense of humour and for making the interview a success.

Jetsun Pema La provided me a deeper insight into issues that hold a great deal of interest for me. I am honoured by the interest she has shown in this work.

I would also like to thank Dr. Tashi Paljor, Principal, Central Institute of Buddhist Studies, Ladakh for his interest in this research.

I would like to thank Dolma Choephel, Joint Secretary (Tibetan Youth Congress) for giving me an interview. Tsering Tashi, Secretary, Bureau of His Holiness The Dalai Lama in New Delhi, gave me useful literature – I am grateful to him.

It has been a pleasure to know Luke Harding and Phoebe Taplin. Because of the support that Luke has provided, this work is seeing its logical completion. I can never forget his co-operation and rare generosity. It has been lovely to know such concerned and compassionate individuals and I wish to express an indeed, very deep gratitude to both of them.
Suzzanne Goldenberg has given me rigorous lessons in journalistic research. I think fondly about our association and I thank her for all that she has done for me.

Mr. Mark Tully's kind recommendation went a long way in finally materializing an appointment for the interview with His Holiness The Dalai Lama. I would also like to thank him as well as Gillian Wright.

To supportive siblings, Mini Didi and Manu – a big thanks – as also to their spouses Rajesh and Vinati. To my nephew and nieces Raghav, Kalyani and Manavi for their precious love.

Apart from me there is one more person who has taken as much interest and pride in this effort as I have and who has stood by me through thick and thin – Ravi – we have patiently shared the tedium of researching together. For his constant support I owe a heartfelt thanks. Ravi's parents have been equally enthusiastic about our research projects and so has Rajiv who even made the effort to come along all the way to Dharamsala on one of the field trips.

To Parvati Jiji many thanks for her immense love and encouragement. Dr. Vishwa Chandra Ohri, with his affectionate prodding and concern has been a constant support within my family. Many thanks!

I would like to thank my friends – Manreet and Jasbir, Kelly and Sagar, Nisha, Harminder, Nivedita and Chetan, Anu and Rahul, Chandrika, Sujana and Nirupam, Rashmi, Aarti, Amit, Jagir, Zos and Ashwini, Sonika and Mollicca, Richa, Meenakshi, Anoop and Deepa, Nathan and Reshmi, Arunav, Sajana and Anil, Naval, Sashi, Shalini Loganey, Ritu, Rona, 'Tsewang and Anuradha, Choekyi and Youdon,' – loving young friends! Nandini and Avinash, Benoy, Geetali, Arjumand and Ather Farouqui, Major Prasad, Vanita, Luther - who have all helped in one way or another towards the completion of this thesis. Many thanks to Gopi for being the "official photographer" for the interview – the photographs I will always cherish as also the beautiful trip to Dharamsala.

I would also like to thank Dr. Karm Singh and Dr. Shyam Sunder who have been helpful on many occasions. I had a long discussion with Dr. Lokesh Chandra for which I am grateful. I wish to thank Mr. Ashwini for his kind help and for accompanying me all the way to Ochghat Monastery in Distt. Solan.

I thank the ICSSR for the grant, which has facilitated this research greatly.

I would like to thank Mr. Shuddh Swaroop for his flawless typing. I thank Mahender and Shekharan for their excellent typing skills and exemplary patience required for typing a Ph.D. thesis.
