8.0 REFERENCES
8.0 REFERENCES

Christophers, S. R. (1902). The Fauna of British India, including Ceylon and Burma
PP. 371.

Environmental Management of Mosquitoes. Abstract, National Conference on Recent Environmental Changes – Its impact on Health, Agriculture, and Ecosystem. Department of Environmental Science, University of Kalyani. 6-7 August, PP. 21.

vectors, Anopheles sundaicus (Roden Waldt) and Anopheles subpictus Grassi, Sula west, larvae and existence of two forms of the species in an urban garden in Calcutta city. Ind. J. Mal.

Vol. 35, PP. 8-14.

Anopheles stephensi Liston of Calcutta. In. Studies on some vectors of Public Health Improtance
PP. 152.

Dutta, A. (1991), Epidemiological observations on malaria in some parts of Tengakhet PHC, Dibrugarh district, Assam. Indian. J. Malaria, 28 ; PP. 121-128.

and rural areas. Ibid, 19 : PP. 80-83.

De Burca, B. and Jacob, V.P.(1947). Further notes on malaria in Fort Sandeman. Ind J. Mal., 1 : PP. 413-416.

annularis* as a probable vector of malaria in the island of Orissa. J.Com. Dis, 14 (3) : 224.

Health on the March, West Bengal (2000-'02). State Bureau of Health Intelligence, Directorate of Health Services, Govt. of West Bengal, PP. 257.

Malaria Research Centre. Delhi, Annual Report, (1986).

