Acknowledgements

At the very outset I express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervising teacher Dr. K.P. Muraleedharan, Professor and Head, Department of Commerce and Management Studies, University of Calicut, for his masterly guidance, meticulous attention and perceptive suggestions without which this study would not have been possible. Amidst his busy academic and administrative schedule he spared much time to properly direct me at every stages of the work.

The members of the faculty of the Department of Commerce and Management Studies, University of Calicut were very helpful giving me the required confidence and courage to pursue the work. The administrative staffs of the department were very generous in providing the supportive services required to complete the research. I wish to place on record my sincere thanks to each and every one of them.

Dr. Koshy Abraham and Dr. Sonal Kureshi, the members of the Marketing Faculty of the IIM Ahmedabad, gave me precious advice and scholarly suggestions in the course of my work. I take this opportunity to extend my sincere thanks to them.

I express my gratitude to the Librarians and supporting staff of Department of Commerce and Management Studies, CHMK Library of University of Calicut, Indian Institute of Management Kozhikode, Indian Institute of Management Ahmedabad, Centre of Development Studies Thiruvananthapuram, Cochin University of Science and Technology and University of Kerala.
I have immense pleasure to express my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. N. Raju, Professor, Department of Statistics, University of Calicut for his valuable comments and talented assistance in the analysis of data.

I wish to convey my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. P.K. Babu, the Head, P.G. Department of English, Unity women's College, Manjeri for his expertise assistance in the preparation of the thesis.

I express my profound gratitude to the Principal Dr. P. Mohammed and my colleagues and friends of the Unity Women's College, Manjeri for all the support given to me for completing the research.

I am very much obliged to the University Grants Commission for awarding me Fellowship under its Faculty Improvement Programme and the Management of the Unity Women's College, Manjeri for permitting me to take sufficient leave, without which it would have been difficult to complete the work.

I also wish to thank my fellow research scholars in the DCMS for the valuable help given to me at different stages of the work.

Finally, a word of thanks will not also be inappropriate in this context to M/s Bina Photostats for the neatness and speed with which they have executed the typing work of this thesis.
