Two roads diverged in a wood and
I took the one less travelled by
And that has made all the difference

- Robert Frost

The social icon Mahasweta Devi’s concern for the subalternised and stigmatised is laudable. This literary exercise on the select works has been more than a rewarding experience. It has sparked a fire in me to broaden my social outlook and altruistic principles. I consider this felicitous opportunity to work on such a noble writer as my lifetime achievement.

I am immensely grateful to my supervisor Dr. R. Kasthuri Bai, Reader and Head, Research Department of English, Sri Sarada College for Women, Salem, who has proved to be my staunch friend, philosopher and guide in every moment of life. Her astute comments and guidance regarding this research work have imparted velocity to many a lumbering thought and my discussion with her has been my sounding board. I am much indebted to her for her stimulating direction, commendable efficiency, unstinted co-operation and scholarly advice to set right the woof and warp of my material.

I record my deep sense of gratitude to the benevolent management of Sri Sarada College for Women (Autonomous), Salem–16, for granting me permission to undertake the present study in their reputed institution. I express my sincere thanks to Dr. R. Rajeswari, Principal, Sri Sarada College for Women, Salem–16, for her constant encouragement and guidance during the period of my research work.

I whole-heartedly acknowledge my debt of gratitude to Dr. H. Alamelu Radha, Reader (Retd.) in English, Sri Sarada College for Women, Salem–16, whose unfading concern and encouragement has helped me in various ways in the preparation of this literary exercise.

I offer my sincere thanks to my friends and colleagues Khairusinna and A. Suguneswari for their valuable guidance given at all the stages of this research work.

I am thankful to the members of the staff of the following libraries for their willing co-operation and help in identifying the sources and obtaining them.

- Study Centre for Indian Literature in English and Translation, American College, Madurai.
- Central Institute of Indian Languages, Mysore.
- Dhavanyalokha, Mysore.
- Periyar University, Salem.
- Madras University, Chennai.
- Madurai Kamaraj University, Madurai.
- Bharathidasan University, Trichy.
- Sri Sarada College for Women, Salem.

In my journey as a research scholar, I owe my special thanks to my daughter—friend, S. Mithra, who has an exceptional feat of imagination and language competence to objectively view my write-up. She has shown enormous interest in elevating me to greater heights. Similarly, I owe all my success to my other half, Mr. A. Shanmugasundaram, a writer and social activist, who transforms every difficult moment in my life into an act of triumph. In this regard, I am more than conventional. I dedicate this humble endeavour to my father A. Sankaran, but for whom my academic achievements would not have been possible. I thank Classic Data Line, Salem – 16, and especially Mr. R. Udhaya Kumar, for having converted my handwritten manuscript into type script.
