ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost I wish to express my endless thanks to Almighty God, the most benevolent and merciful, who blessed me for the timely completion of this thesis. I am highly grateful to Mr. R. P. Singh (I.P.S.), I. G. (Prisons), and Mr. K. B. Joshi (Research Officer), Head Office of Prison Administration and Reforms Services, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, India for granting me permission to interview the women inmates in the District Jails of Aligarh, Bulandshahar and Meerut, Uttar Pradesh, India.

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to Mr. S. P. Yadav, the Superintendent, Mr. M. P. Singh, the Deputy Jailor, Dr. M. M. Khan, the Doctor, Mrs. Vineeta Kumari, the Teacher, and the Staff Members, District Jail of Aligarh; Mr. Vijay Vikram Singh, the Superintendent, Mr. Shailesh Deputy Jailor, Dr. Ashustosh Mehta and Dr. Rakesh Tiwari, the Doctors, Mrs. Munni Devi, the Constable and the Staff Members, District Jail of Bulandshahar; Mr. S. M. H. Rizvi, the Superintendent, Mr. Surendra Sharma, Deputy Jailor, Dr. Mukesh, the Doctor, Mrs. Shakuntla, the Constable, and the Staff Members, District Jail of Meerut for rendering all possible help and support in conducting the research work. I also express my thanks to the respondents of the study, other women inmates and prison staff members for showing their faith and trust towards me.

I express my sincere thanks and deep sense of gratitude to my Supervisor, Dr. Shereen Sadiq, Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, for her guidance that enabled me to complete my research work. I am also deeply grateful to Professor S. Zainuddin, the Chairperson, and Professor Abdul Matin, the Ex-chairperson, Department of Sociology, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh, for providing all possible research facilities in the department. I am also very thankful to all the distinguished faculty members as well as non-teaching staff of the Department of Sociology, for their encouragement and continuous support.

Moreover, I am immensely thankful to the Staffs of Mualana Azad Library, Seminar Library of the Department of Sociology, Library of Centre for Women's Studies, Aligarh Muslim University, Aligarh and the Library of National Institute of Health Science and Research, New Delhi, for their assistance and access to available literature. Finally, I am very much thankful to all those who have directly and indirectly been associated towards the completion of the research work.

I am also extremely grateful to the University Grants Commission (UGC), India for granting me the Junior Research Fellowship (JRF) for two years and the Senior Research Fellowship (SRF) for three years that really helped me to devote myself to the work. I am very grateful to all my well-wishers, friends and colleagues for their moral support and encouragement. Last but not the least, I am also highly indebted to my parents, grandparents and siblings for providing their continued support, blessings and motivation without which the present thesis would not have been accomplished.

Razdha Parveen