ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am indebted to Dr. G. Pankajam, Vice-Chancellor of Gandhigram Rural Institute as well as my joint supervisor, who inspired the study, provided the initial theoretical framework and gave many helpful suggestions from the conception of the idea to the conclusion of the project. A most grateful acknowledgement is made for her scholarly guidance and constant encouragement.

I am deeply grateful to Dr. A. Suriakanthi, Director, Department of Adult Continuing Education and [Extension, my research supervisor, who provided meticulous guidance and invaluable assistance and shared generously her time and resources. I sincerely thank her for her sustained enthusiasm, ungrudging guidance, and constant inspiration.

I would also like to express my gratitude to Dr. N. Kamalamma, Professor and I lead of the Department of Home Science, for her valuable support, sincere encouragement and thoughtful suggestions.

I record my appreciation and gratitude to Dr. M. Velusamy, Professor of Tamil (retired), Gandhigram Rural Institute for many valuable suggestions, innovative ideas and readiness to help.

I would also like to thank Dr. IT Jothiprakash who proof-read portions of the thesis and Fr. Bobby M. Alex who helped with library search for sources and references. Their enthusiastic support and tireless assistance eased the burden during the project years.
A most grateful acknowledgement is made to my esteemed colleagues in the Department of Sociology and Psychology, especially Drs. LaWanda Gunn-Williams, Frances Staten and Russell Willis, at Grambling State University for their encouragement and support.

I must also record my appreciation and special thanks to Kochukunju and Aravind for their generous hospitality, gracious assistance and boundless enthusiasm which lightened my work a great deal.

I am ever grateful to my husband, Dr. Francis Abraham, always a tower of strength, who sustained my enthusiasm by giving inspiring suggestions as well as hours of typing and editing, and my daughters, Sowmya and Suji and their husbands, Kevin Stanulevich and Steve White, for their affectionate understanding, enthusiastic support and all the caring which kept me in good cheer throughout the work.

I gratefully acknowledge the help rendered by Dr. S. Ami Gnana Sekar in carrying out the statistical analysis and the preparation of the final report.

I also wish to acknowledge the help given by Miss S. Sivagami Sundari during collection of data and preparation of the report.

The conscientious assistance by Miss S. Manju Matha Devi in typing the report is also gratefully acknowledged.

I am especially grateful to the children, mothers, the teachers and the school authorities who made this research possible. I am also thankful to the field investigators who helped me with data collection.