LIST OF TABLES

Table No.                                                                 Page No.

Part I.

1. Income
   1.a. Effect of income on self-concept of pre-school children         115
   1.b. Difference in the self-concept of pre-school children for     116
         Individual income group.
   2.a. Effect of income on preference of colour                       116
   2.b. Difference in the preference of colour belonging to various    117 income groups.
   3. Influence of income on preference of design                      118
   4. Influence of income on preference of value of colour             118
   5.a. Effect of income on identification of garments for various     119 occasions.
   5.b. Difference in the identification of garments for various       119 occasions belonging to various income levels.
   6.a. Effect of income on Intensity of reaction                      120
   6.b. Difference in the Intensity of reaction belonging various      120 income levels.
   7.a. Effect of income on Reaction pattern.                           121
   7.b. Difference in the reaction pattern belonging to various        121 income levels.
   8. Percentage spent on children's clothing.                          122
   9. Maximum amount spent for a dress.                                122
10. Persons involved in clothing purchases

11. Families taking opinion of the child while purchasing.

13. Factors Influencing clothing purchases.

15. Number of dresses the children possess.

16. Preference of material

17. Preference of Ready made, Home-made and Tailor made dresses

18. Problems faced while purchasing

19. Identification of dresses for various occasions.

Part II

Effect of dressing

20. Self-concept of well dressed and ill dressed children

21. Reaction pattern of well dressed and ill dressed children

22. Intensity of reaction of well dressed and ill dressed children.

23. Colour preference of well dressed and ill dressed children.

24. Design preference of well dressed and ill dressed children.

26. Identification of dresses for various occasions by well dressed and ill dressed children

27. Expressive behaviour of children when they are dressed in dressy dresses and in ordinary dresses

28. Self concept of male and female children

29. Reaction pattern of male and female children

30. Intensity of reaction of male and female children

31. Colour preference of male and female children
32. Design preference of male and female children
33. Value of colour preference of male and female children
34. Identification of dresses for various occasions by male and female children
35. Correlation between temperature and self-concept
36. Correlation between colour preference and self-concept
37. Correlation of preference of design and self-concept
38. Correlation between value of colour preference and self-concept
39. Correlation between self-concept and ideal self-concept
40. Preference of design mother-child agreement
41. Preference of colour mother-child agreement
42. Correlation between Reaction pattern and colour preference
43. Correlation between Reaction pattern and design preference
44. Correlation between Reaction pattern and value of colour
45. Correlation between Intensity of reaction and colour preference
46. Correlation between Intensity of reaction and design preference
47. Correlation between Intensity of reaction and value of colour preference