Bibliography

50. Dr. Shantanu Mehta, Charmi Shah, Preference of investors for india mutual funds and its performance Evaluation, Pacific Business Review international, Volume 5, issue 3 (September 2012)

71. Henderson.B, 1999,”fund of information, More investor go it alone”, Baron's, may 3, 3-4.

80. http://marketpublishers.com

81. http://securityinvestments.in/Static/FAQ.aspx#link5

   &title=Is-India-headed-into-a-recession

   Studies 14, 659—680.

88. Hurley, Pamela Rachel, PhD, 2005,” An empirical investigation using a real options analysis framework for making the optimal allocations of financial resources and application to investment decisions under uncertainty”, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, 158 pages; AAT3173266.

89. Hurst, Eric, Ming ChingLuoh, Frank P. Stafford, William G. Gale, The wealth

90. Ibboton .R and Kaplan, 2000, "Does asset allocation policy explain 40%; 90%; or 100% of performance”, Financial analyst journal, 56(1), 26-33.

   characteristics on women's retirement investment decisions”, Oklahoma State University, 2003, 120 pages; AAT 3105772.

92. Jason Glazier, Kathryn wilkens, "Skill and turn over: Requirement for investment

93. John F. Casey, A New Definition of Success in Investment Management AIMR Conference Proceedings, Organizational Challenges for Investment Firms (May

94. Joseph. A. Glien and Rosemary. R. Glien, Calculating, interpreting and reporting
   Cronbach’s Alpha reliability coefficient for likert type scales, Midwest research conference in adult, Continuing and community education, 2003, Pg. 52 – 88.

107. Li, Lepeng, Ph.D., 2004,” An integrated framework for long-term care financing decisions in retirement planning with behavioral considerations”, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, 2004, 139 pages; AT 3122996,

139. Rangel, Marcos Almeida, Ph.D., 2004, “Intra-household allocation of resources and family decision-making”, University of California, Los Angeles, 190 pages; AAT 3149823.

