I am grateful to:

My supervisor Shivarama Padikkal, for his total involvement in my work; for the academic freedom he gave me in my research; for providing me space to work on an ‘unusual’ topic of research and on a ‘sensitive’ issue especially, in the context of Karnataka; for it would have been difficult to pursue this project in many other departments of literature; for his patience, understanding, meticulous and personal attention to every detail of my dissertation and for his student friendly nature.

Prof. Probal Dasgupta, the Dean of Humanities, for encouraging me all the time and appointing me as a Guest Faculty in the Centre for Comparative Literature of University of Hyderabad in 2003-04.

The University Grant Commission for providing me Junior and Senior Research fellowships during 1998-2003.

Staff members of Karnataka State Archives, Bangalore.; State Central Library, Bangalore; Basava Samiti Library, Bangalore; Mythic Society, Bangalore; Bangalore University, Bangalore; Mysore University, Mysore; Divisional Archives, Mysore; Sutturu Mutt Library, Mysore; Basel Mission, Mangalore; Karnataka Vidyavardhaka Sangha, Dharwad; Karnataka University, Dharwad; Gulbarga University, Gulbarga; Naganur Rudrakshi Mutt Library, Belgaum; Kannada University, Hampi; State Central Library, Hyderabad; Osmania University, Hyderabad; State Archives, Hyderabad.

Prof. G.S.Shivarudrappa, Prof. Chidanandamurthy, Prof Shrinivasa Havanur, R.R.Hudgi, Prof. P. V.Narayana, Prof Rahamat Tarikere, Prof. Viranna Dande for sharing their views on literary controversies with me many of which helped me in formulating several arguments over here.

Chitra Panikkar for her valuable suggestions at the crucial stages of my research; for her friendship.

Sasheej Hegde for his stimulating comments and sharp questions.

Tirumal for sensitising me to social issues; for his pertinent comments.

Tharakeshwar for drawing my attention to this topic; for convincing me on the importance of this study.

Srinivasaiyah for sharing his books and articles with me in the initial stages of my research.

Nikhila for her keen interest in my PhD progress and for her helping nature.
Kanchan, Ramesh/Maithreyi, Shashikantha, Shashikala, Smriti and Shridhar for their ever readiness to help, feedback and enduring friendship.

Aruna, Gurram, Mamta, Rajeshwari, Shalini and Tatya, for their camaraderie and help.

Feminist and Dalit friends on the campus and elsewhere for enlightening me on several issues that influenced my research as well as me in a unique way.

The 'Rethinking the "Crisis" in English studies' group and the "Forum for Cultural Studies" (FoCus) for my academic growth.

Paramesh and Shrinivas for all their assistance, and the genuine interest they have shown in the completion of this dissertation.

The Head, faculty and the office staff of the Centre for Applied Linguistics and Translation Studies for treating me as if I were a research student in their Department.

Amma (Padikkal's mother), Sudha, Teju and Soujanya for their affection, warmth and hospitality.