ACKNOWLEDGMENT

In the preparation of this thesis, I have received a lot of encouragement, support, advice, suggestions and assistance from many sources. It may not be possible for me to mention all of them.

First and foremost, I extend my deep indebtedness and sincere gratitude to my supervising teacher Dr. K. Gangadharan, Reader and Head, Department of Applied Economics, Kannur University. His constant encouragement supplemented by expert guidance and perfect supervision at each and every stage of my work helped me to successfully complete this research work within the time frame. Words are inadequate to extend my gratitude and sincere thanks to him.

It was Dr. S. Harikumar (Professor and Head, Department of Applied Economics, Cochin University of Science and Technology, Kochi) who introduced me to this area of research and inspired me to work diligently. His comments were extremely helpful in pointing out the flaws in this thesis.

I am grateful to Dr. P. Ibrahim (Professor, Department of Economics, Pondicherry University), Sri. K. T. Thomachan (Lecturer, Department of Economics, St. Joseph’s College, Devagiri, Calicut), Sri. K. K. Somashekkaran (Lecturer, Department of Economics, K. M. M. Government College, Kannur), Sri. N. Karunakaran (Lecturer, Department of Economics, Government College, Kasaragod) and Sri. R. Santhosh (Head, Department of Economics, E. K. N. M. Government College, Elathattu) for their great and timely help.

I extend my gratitude to the teaching and non-teaching staff of the Department of Applied Economics, Kannur University Thalassery Campus, Palayad for their suggestions and support offered in the course of my work and also thankful for all research scholars and my students from the P. G classes of Department of Applied Economics, Kannur University.

I express my heartfelt thanks to Sri. N. V. Vijayakumar (Sub-Editor, Deccan Herald, Bangalore), his brotherly affection and care received throughout the study.

I am thankful to the librarian and staff, Thalassery campus library, Palayad, Centre for Development Studies, Thiruvanthapuram, Kannur University library,
Population Research Centre, Thiruvanthapuram, Kerala University, Thiruvanthapuram etc has benefited and positively contributed in shaping the thesis.

The research aptitude in me was cultivated in the Post graduate and M.Phil classes at Department of Economics, Pondicherry University. I extend my thanks to all my teachers at Department of Economics, Pondicherry University. I cannot forget the encouragement and guidance I received from my teachers at E.K.N.M. Government College, Elerithattu. They were the first to make me like this subject and to assure me that all was well in me.

I owe my special thanks to the sample households of rural areas of Kasaragod district for their valuable co-operation and support extended to me in carrying out survey as part of my study. I extended my sincere thanks to doctors, nurses, anganwadi workers, primary health centre staffs, panchayath officials etc for their help throughout the study. I express my hearty thanks to my students especially Mr.Retheesh.P.K and Mr.Vineshkumar.K.V, for their help throughout the study.

My parents, Sri. K.P. Ramachandran and Smt. V.K. Bhunumathi, who were the source of inspiration for me in the moments I felt failing like. Indeed, their moral support, propitious help and encouragement extended at all stages of the endeavour have helped me a lot for the successful completion of the thesis. My brother, Naveen Chandran, his constant support throughout the study and sincere gratitude to each and every members of my family. I extended my sincere thanks to Sri. S. Sreedharan Pillai (Father-in-law) and Smt. Sarojini.P (Mother-in-law), for their support and encouragement.

My wife Sandhya.P and my son Aadinath Chandra were the main source of strength behind this endeavour, without their help and cooperation I couldn’t even imagine taking this endeavour.

After all I pay tribute to ‘God Almighty’ without whose love and blessings nothing in this world is possible.

Vipin Chandran.K.P