ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis is a result of years of research work when I have been accompanied and supported by many people. Now it is my pleasure to have the opportunity to express my gratitude to all of them.

First of all, I would like to express my profound gratitude and deep regards, to my supervisor Professor Sunil K. Sharma and co-supervisor Professor Virinder S. Parmar for guiding me and giving me the extraordinary opportunity throughout this journey. I am really grateful to them for providing me all the necessary facilities, with loads of fruitful suggestions and constant encouragement during the course of this work.

I am also indebted to Professor Dr. Erik V. Van der Eycken for giving me an opportunity to work in his laboratory at the University of Leuven (KU Leuven), Belgium as a visiting doctoral student under “ERASMUS MUNDUS ACTION 2 LOT 11 ASIA: EXPERTS SPECIALISATION STUDENT – SCHOLARSHIP”. His strong advice and kind of support nourished my intellectual maturity that I will benefit from, for a long time to come.

I would also like to give my sincere thanks to:

- Professor Ashok K. Prasad and Professor Shrikant Kukreti, the members of my PhD advisory committee, for offering invaluable suggestions from time to time.
- The Department of Chemistry at University of Delhi, and the University of Leuven for providing the infrastructural laboratory facilities and various analytical support to carry out my research work. It has been a pleasure working at this University.
- Dr. Hemant Kumar at Institute of Genomics and Integrative Biology (IGIB, CSIR), Delhi for their efforts in evaluation of antibacterial activity of my samples.
- All my friends from Molecular Design and Synthesis division at the University of Leuven (KU Leuven) Belgium.
- Senior colleagues at University of Delhi: Dr. Sumit Kumar, Dr. Anjali Gupta, Dr. Abha Kathuria, Dr. Sarah Jalal and Dr. Karam Chand and present lab members for their constant help and providing me an amusing working environment and extending their tender cooperation towards me.
Mr. Abdullah Khan and Ms. Priyanka Manchanda for their consistent support in collecting analytical data and thesis writing.

Dr. Shilpi Gupta (University of Delhi) and Dr. Sachin G. Modha (University of Leuven) for their continuous kind support in various ways and valuable suggestions during my entire journey of my PhD.

Dr. Pranab K. Patra (Alexander-von-Humboldt Fellow at Freie Universität Berlin, Germany), Dr. Rohit Saxena and Mr. Keshav Dutt Sharma for teaching me the initial scientific skills at Jubilant Chemsys Ltd. Noida.

Mr. Baldev Singh, Department of Chemistry, University of Delhi for his assistance and help in several administrative matters throughout this venture.

Supporting staff of our group, especially Anuj, Ajeet and Gaurva as they have been very cooperative during my entire stay in the Department.

DU-DST Purse grant, DRDO and ERASMUS-MUNDUS Action 2 Lot 11: EXPERTS for providing me financial support during my entire PhD tenure.

Developers of Google search engine and Wikipedia at this moment. These tools have been easy and rapid sources of information in a crisis.

I would like to thank my friends Rajnish, Ratish, Ashish, Raj, Gaurav, and Marzia who all rejuvenated me and sharing beautiful moments during the entire journey.

This acknowledgement is incomplete without the mention of my family, my biggest driving force. I would like to express my deep love of my parents Mrs. Prabha Devi and Late Sri Ram Kripal Thakur for their unconditional, emotional and moral support. I thank my brothers Anil Thakur and Manish Thakur and my sweet sister Rajni Thakur for supporting my ambitions, and for their inspirations to keep going. During my failures and success they were always there to help and enjoy with me. My father who passed away due to long illness, was my first childhood friend. He kept a strong foundation for my character buildup. I heartily thank new members Pia, Akash, Anvita, Aniket, Raksha and Radha in my family for giving me the best moments of my life. I would like to say ‘love you to all’.

Finally, I must thank all those whom I have failed to mention but they have helped me in various ways during the course of this work.

AMIT KUMAR