ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author expresses his profound sense of gratitude to his research supervisor Dr. A. Joseph Stanley, Dean (Former), Madras Institute of Technology, Director (Academic), Hindustan University, Chennai, for his keen interest and unhesitating and invaluable guidance given for the completion of this research work. The author is indebted to the joint supervisor Dr. G. Raghava, Chief Scientist and Head, Fatigue & Fracture Laboratory (FFL), CSIR-Structural Engineering Research Centre, Chennai, for his untiring support and expert guidance given during the course of this research work.

The author places on record his deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Nagesh R. Iyer, Director, CSIR-SERC Chennai, for granting permission to carry out the research program at FFL, CSIR-SERC and for providing necessary facilities, support and encouragement to complete the research program. Special thanks to Dr. S. Vishnuvardhan, Scientist at FFL, for fixing the test schedules and lending a gracious helping hand whenever the tests were struck with technical issues.

The help rendered by the technical staff of FFL, particularly Mr. G. Muthuramalingam, who was very kind and highly accommodative with a ready smile, tested the samples at short notice, and the other staff members of FFL but for whose help this programme would not have been completed on time. Profound gratitude is due to Dr. B. T. N. Sridhar, Head, Department of Aeronautical Engineering, MIT, Chennai, for his untiring support which helped in the completion of this research work.

The author would like to thank Dr. P. Baskaran, Dr. K. Vijay Raja (Head Department of Aeronautical Engineering), Principal and Dr. J. Mala (Chairperson) of Tagore Engineering College and his friends for their constant support and encouragement which led to the successful completion of the research work. Finally, the author would like to thank his family members, particularly his wife Mrs. Geetha Sai for her patience with his erratic ways of working for the past few years and supporting and helping him in the completion of this research work.
