ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the course of writing this thesis I have become indebted to many people and several institutions. I owe the deepest gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Sunil Sondhi, without whose support and guidance this present study could not have been completed. I acknowledge his favour of enlightening me on my research subject with his illuminating erudition, clarity and precision. I feel that no language is enough for expressing my gratitude to him.

My Sincere Gratitude to Prof. K. Mathews for initiating me into the world of research and being a source of invaluable guidance and support. I greatly admire his humility and Modesty and will try to look at all things in life positively and enthusiastically, like him. His advice "to be good to others" will always remain a source of inspiration for me.

I wish to place on record my indebtedness to all those who have helped me in the preparation of the present thesis. I express my profound gratitude to Prof. Navneeta Chaddha Behara, Department of Political Science, University of Delhi and Prof. Veena Kukreja whose unstinted support, affectionate behaviour and scholarly guidance were more helpful and valuable than anything else on the arduous work of research.

I am indebted to Prof. Pradip Kumar Datta, Head, Department of Political Science for encouraging me through. I express my gratitude to him.

My thanks are due to Mr. Chandrahasan, the founder of the Organisation for Eelam Refugees Rehabilitation (OFERR) for his kind cooperation when I was collecting the data in Tamil Nadu. I would like to thank common people of Tamil Nadu, Government employees of Shashtri Bhawan in Tamil Nadu, students of Tamil Nadu University and Srilankan Refugees who are living in Chennai to take out the time from their busy schedule for interviews.
I further owe a debt of gratitude to Raja Mohan, High Commissioner of Refugees, Department of rehabilitation, Chepauk, Chennai for permitting me to consent the records pertaining to my research work.

I express my thanks to the staff of Central Reference Library, JNU Library, International Law Library, Ratan Tata Library, Department of Political Science Library, Saproow House Library for providing necessary assistance in locating the required literature.

No words can define the unconditional support and encouragements of my parents and family throughout the tenure of my studies. Thanks are due to my in-laws and family also.

I particularly owe thanks to my Meenadi and my friend Pinki for their love and affection. My little daughter Meethi Smile has encouraged me everyday. I am also thankful to Rupesh (Friends Computers, D.U.) for his help in compiling this work in its present form.

Last, but most important a personal thanks to my husband Ajay. His contribution in my life has been immense, sharing my thoughts with him has helped me in refining my work. It was his support that made me complete field trip of Chennai.

I am alone however, responsible for all errors and shortcomings.

Priti Chahal