ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Writing a thesis is a solitary adventure, but it is not an independent one. The extent of one's dependence on others is evident in the simple act of recalling their names. The list is long indeed.

My first token of gratitude goes to my guide, Dr. N.R. Parasnis, who took much trouble to direct my research adventure.

Special thanks are due to the Headmasters, teachers, parents and students of the schools selected for the study, because this project would never have materialised without their co-operation.

Thanks are also due to my colleagues and friends who assisted me in various ways.

Finally, my heartfelt thanks go to my husband Vivian and children Rienzi, Vernon and Virusha for their unfailing love, understanding and concern shown during the research period.

(Rhoda Ferrao Almeida)