Acknowledgement

This thesis would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of several individuals who in one way or another contributed and extended their valuable assistance in the preparation and completion of this study. This thesis has been kept on track and been seen through to completion with the support and encouragement of numerous people including my well wishers, my friends, colleagues and various institutions.

At the end of my thesis I would like to thank all those people who made this thesis possible and an unforgettable experience for me.

At this moment of accomplishment, first of all I pay homage to my guide, Dr. Manish Sidhpuria. My sincere thanks to him not because he has guided me but also to accept me as his student and helping me throughout this journey starting from the initial days of finalizing the topic for the thesis. This work would not have been possible without his guidance, support, encouragement and valuable insights and remarks. Under his guidance I successfully overcame many difficulties and learned a lot.

One person who deserves special thanks is Dr. Jayesh Desai, Director BRCM College of Business Administration for facilitating me in many ways whether in the form of sanctioning and accommodating my leaves or to arrange data collection at Kadkiya College; he was always there to help me. A special thanks to Mr. Mrunal Joshi whose knowledge in SPSS helped a lot when I needed the most.

Whole hearted thanks also to all the faculty members and head of the institutes who facilitated the Data collection process at their institute.

My deliberations on the study have also been influenced by the contributions of several other researchers, whom I have cited throughout the text. Furthermore, I would like to express my gratitude to all the respondents without whom this research would not have been possible.

Very special thanks to my institute Sarvajanik Education Society and BRCM College of Business Administration for putting trust in my capability and providing the necessary support, and also to Veer Narmad South Gujarat University for allowing my enrollment as PhD student.
Last but not the least, a lot of thanks to my family for their unconditional support and encouragement especially my wife Sonal who stood by me in every difficulty and is a constant source of motivation and my beloved son Jishnu whom I could not give much time due to work deadline.

And the one above all of us, the omnipresent God, for giving me the strength and self belief in all spheres of my life.
