ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis is the culmination of my journey to obtain Ph.D degree. I have not traveled in a vacuum in this journey. This thesis has been kept on track and been seen through to completion with the support and encouragement of numerous people including academicians, teachers, my family, my friends and well wishers. At the end of my thesis, it is a pleasant task to express my thanks to all those who contributed in many ways to the success of this study and made it an unforgettable experience for me.

Foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. O.P. Miglani for the continuous support of my Ph.D study and research, for his patience, motivation, enthusiasm, and immense knowledge. His guidance helped me in all the time of research and writing of this thesis. I could not have imagined having a better supervisor and mentor for my Ph.D study.

My sincere thanks are due to Dr. Ramesh Bansal, Professor & Head, Department of Economics for his kind co-operation. I am also thankful to Prof. G.K. Bhatia for her valuable suggestions from time to time. The invaluable expert comments and co-operation from other learned members of the faculty greatly facilitated the process of this study. I am indebted to all of them. I am grateful to my school, college and university teachers who laid seeds of enthusiasm and passion in my pursuit of knowledge.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the Embassy of India in Beijing for making available the latest data on China. I am also obliged to His Excellency Dr. Yuan Nansheng Ambassador of People’s Republic of China, Suriname for providing the necessary data after translating it in English.

I would like to express my sincere thanks to the librarian of Anton de Kom University, Paramaribo for providing the translation of data from Dutch to English on urban housing in China and India.

I would like to dedicate this endeavor to my parents i.e. my father S Harbhajan Singh and my mother late Smt. Darshan Kaur. I owe a lot to my parents, who encouraged and helped me at every stage of my personal and academic life, and longed to see this achievement come true. I deeply miss my mother, who is not with me to share this joy. I am also very much indebted to my father-in-law S. Kuldip Singh Sodhi and mother-in-law late Smt. Jagdish Kaur who supported me in every possible way to see the completion of this work. I owe special thanks to my dearest children Anupreet, Ravipal, Jasmine, Jaideep and Karanpreet for their constructive suggestions, moral support and sincere prayers for completing this task. Plentiful and loving thanks also go to my dearest grandchildren Kaira Soin and Darsh Soin - my love for them is beyond words.

It is beyond my access to acknowledge in words the ever-encouraging moral support of my husband S Kanwaljit Singh Sodhi, former Ambassador of India to Suriname who always inspired me to reach up to this level. He is always a pillar of strength in my life. He is the one whose encouragement and support gave me the strength to complete this stupendous work. He has been a wonderful partner in this project, as he is in life. He has helped in editing the thesis and given constant feedback.

Above all, I owe it all to Almighty God for granting me the wisdom, health and strength to undertake this research task and enabling me to its completion.
