Words fail me in expressing my gratitude to Praful and Haresh, and Rinkal for their unwearing patience and encouragement throughout my research work.

I will be indebted to my wife and little daughter "Shayana" who always remained with me through all the impediments, hitches and hurdles throughout life. It was their constant encouragement, and bearing patience throughout the work that helped me during the study. They supported and boosted my morale and confidence at times when I needed it the most.

I sincerely pay homage to those "innocent animals" who were sacrificed during experimental work. May God rest their soul in peace and harmony.

I express my hearty gratitude to all of those who cooperated with me directly or indirectly in this study and sincerely apologize for my inability to mention by name individually every one associated with it.

With prostration to Almighty, I hope any flaw in the work or any insolence in my approach can be solicited for condonement.
