ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The completion of this study owes to the inputs made by many institutions and personages. At the outset I express my deep sense of gratitude to Professor H.S. Chopra, without whose personal interest and initiative this work may not have seen light of the day. At almost every stage of this work, he gave me valuable advice, which eventually helped me to accomplish my task.

I am ever grateful to my reverend father Late Sambhu Charan Bhattacharya who provided me constant encouragement and moral support for this work right from the beginning. Unfortunately he left us a few weeks back without even seeing completion of this work.

This work required plenty of library support. For this purpose I would like to express my sincere thanks to Mr. Ashok Ghosh, Advisor (Economics, Commercial). EC Delegation to India, who provided me with all valuable documents needed for my study. I also owe a lot to Mrs. S. Sabharwal, (Advisor) of the same office for providing me all valuable books and documents on my demand. My work would not be finished without free access to the EU delegation documentation centre. For this purpose I express my sincere thanks to Mr. Ashok Purang, Mr. Anil Patni and Ms. Rupa Sharma.

I am equally indebted to the support and assistance that became available to me for completion of this study from the ASSOCHAM, where I had the pleasure of working for the last six years. My special thanks are due to Mr. K.S. Thakur, the ASSOCHAM librarian, who extended unstinted support to me at all times of my need. Further I express my thanks to CII, FICCI, PHDCCI and Commerce Ministry and IIFT Libraries for the much needed help that they extended to me.

I would never forget contributions of Dr. Harsha Vardhan Singh, Counsellor of WTO, who helped me in all possible ways during my brief field trip to Geneva. He not only introduced me to various experts in this area (based in Geneva) but also took personal initiative in arranging all the documents needed for my research for academic and conceptual part I am ever grateful to Sam Laird, Counsellor, WTO, who spent with me several days in exchanging views and gave proper direction to my research. At WTO, I express my sincere thanks to Richard Blackharst, Joseph Francois, Brad McDonald, John Nordstern, Richard Houghes, Raymunda Valdes, Aditya Mattoo, Peter Tulloch, who helped me in their respective areas and provided me with valuable suggestions for my thesis.

My work is an empirical study, entirely based on data. This study would have never materialised without ceaseless help from UNCTAD. Mr., Drik Zandee and Mr. Rammiro Guzman provided me with all UNCTAD reports on trade, tariffs and non-tariffs barriers. They have sacrificed their much valuable time for compiling data and their interpretation. They took personal initiative in sending me latest available data on NTBs. I would never forget their contribution to my research.

In Geneva, I am also grateful to two senior Indians who helped me while going out of the way contacting experts in the concerned areas. They are Mr. Badrinath, Senior Advisor, ITC, and Mr. Sanjay Bagchi, Director, International Textiles and Clothing Bureau. They not only gave me enough time for discussion but also they provided me with valuable documents for this purpose.

My sincere gratitude is also to India's Permanent Mission to WTO at Geneva. I would always remember priceless contribution of our Ambassador to WTO, H.E. Mr. S. Narayanan. Despite his very busy schedule during my visit, he personally took me to all the places wherever I wanted to go in connection with my research. He has also been liberal enough to send me all UNCTAD documents/reports through his diplomatic bag. My thanks are also to other personages in Geneva who have rendered me most useful service in my research. Worth mentioning are Mr. Arup Bhattacharya, India Information Centre, Dr. Bishnu Rao, International Telecommunication Union, Mr. Willy Maier, Swiss representative to WTO. I am grateful to Dr. Piere Cumbernos, Political Counsellor, Swiss Embassy in India, who provided me all the contacts in Geneva as well as most effective guidance.

My sincere thanks to Mr. Vijay Buttan and Mr. Praveen Aggarwal for their sincere computer work which enables me to complete my thesis in time.

Last but the most important contribution in completion of my work is that of my little son Saurabh Kanti Bhattacharya without whose patience and tolerance I would not have felt comfortable in carrying out my research studies at odd hours, whether at my house, or away therefrom in various libraries and documentation centres.
