ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At the outset, I express my thanks to the University Grants Commission for awarding me a fellowship which enabled me to finish this study. I am deeply indebted to Prof. Bipan Chandra, my supervisor, for inspiration, encouragement, and sustained support in times of my difficulties, constructive and critical ideas and above all for his continuous affection shown during the course of my study. The work would not have been finished without his cooperation and encouragement. The arguments and emphasis as also errors that remain in the work are, of course, mine.

My thanks are due to Prof. V. Ramakrishna of the University of Hyderabad and Prof. K.N. Panikkar of the Centre for Historical Studies, JNU, for their encouragement and useful suggestions in the course of the present study. I am also thankful to A. Murali, Bhagwan Josh and Aditya and Mridula Mukherjee for sharing their ideas with me.

My sincere thanks are due to the authorities and staff of National Archives of India, Nehru Memorial Museum & Library, Central Secretariat Library, New Delhi, Andhra Pradesh State Archives, Hyderabad, Tamilnadu State Archives, Madras, the JNU Library and Joshi Archives, JNU, who have provided me access to the material required for the study.
I remain indebted to several industrial workers, trade union leaders and National Congress leaders for agreeing to grant me interviews and for their patience in spending several hours with me. I benefitted immensely from their ideas and their perceptions of the working class and the national movements in India.

I am thankful to several friends of mine who helped me at various levels of this study. I particularly thank Srinivas, Shankar Reddy, Ashok, Rajagopal, and Lenin Babu who helped me in various ways.

I am immensely indebted to all my family members whose constant support and encouragement helped me pursue my studies and finish this work.

I thank Om Prakash for typing all the drafts of my thesis.
