ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Throughout the tiresome period of research, a number of people stood by me and were of great help. Here, I would like to record my sincere gratitude and appreciation to all those who provided help, support, and encouragement, enabling me to complete my Ph.D. thesis.

First of them all is my research guide wife who gave me her precious time from her family life and allowed me to take time of my guide whenever I approached him.

At the outset, I am ever grateful to my guide Dr. H. Nanje Gowda, Professor and Head of Department of Management, Maharaja’s College, University of Mysore. It gives me immense pleasure to express my deep sense of gratitude and heartfelt thanks to sir for his unfailing support, practical guidance, and fatherly attitude right from the beginning until this work came to life.

I would like also to express my deep sincere gratitude to Dr. G. Kotreshwar, Professor and Chairperson of BOS and Dean of Faculty of Commerce and Management, Manasagangotri, University of Mysore, for their valuable help and cooperation throughout my course of study. My sincere thanks to Dr Rajshekar, Chairman BOS in Commerce for their valuable suggestions during the course of my research period. I would also like to thank all professors and assistant professors in the department of studies in Commerce, University of Mysore, Manasagangothri. The working staff of the department offices and in all the offices of the university was very cooperative and friendly, so thank you all.

I feel privileged to place on record my sincere thanks to Dr. Lancy D’Souza for his valuable consultations and suggestions in applying statistical tools and also for the co-operation in providing necessary information and exchange of ideas, inspite of their busy schedules.

My sincere thanks to Mr. Prakash N.B.Com, CA, CWA, CS, Senior Manager Finance and Accounts, who clarified my doubts and enlightened me on the subject.
I am indebted to Mr. Raghunandan, for his unfailing support and guidance from the beginning until this work came to life.

My thanks are also due to all chartered accountants who participated in this study unflinchingly. I am also grateful to all my students and friends those who directly or indirectly participated in making my study successful.

I have reached where I am only because of the efforts of my parents and my husband and my loving children who sacrificed themselves to my achievement. I dedicate this hard work of mine to them. There are no words through which I could thank them because they are very special gift to me who unreservedly provided me with total support and extreme patience no matter what I say or what I do, I will never be able to pay them back for their unconditional love and kindness.

Finally, my thanks go to everyone who helped me directly or indirectly in my research and whose names have not been included because the list is endless.

Place: Mysore

N.Babitha Thimmaiah

Date: