APPENDIX-B

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Namerta [1998]. Income and Employment Generation Programmes of NGOs in India, Bangalore, NOVIB.

Dunford, Christopher, (2000), In search of “sound practices” for microfinance, Journal of Microfinance 2, 6-12.

Rajashekar, D., [2000a]. Impact of Micro Finance Programme on Poverty Programs and Gender Equality, Some Evidence from Indian NGOs, In Shahra

Kevane, and Bruce, (2001), Microenterprise Lending to Female Entrepreneurs: Sacrificing Economic Growth for Poverty Alleviation? World Development 29, 1225-1236.

Gomez, Rafael, et.al (2001), Membership has its privileges: The effect of social capital and neighbourhood characteristics on the earnings of microfinance borrowers, The Canadian Journal of Economics 34, 943-966.

on the SHG-Bank Linkage Programme in New Delhi, 25–26 November. NABARD, Mumbai.

Panda K. D. (2009), Participation in the Group Based Microfinance and its Impact on Rural

Prema Basargekar(2009) Microcredit and a Macro Leap: An Impact Analysis of Annapurna

Mahila Mandal (AMM), an Urban Microfinance Institution in India. The IUP Journal of Financial 106 Economics, Vol. VII, Nos. 3 & 4,

Abu Shonchoy(2010) Seasonal Migration and the Effectiveness of Micro-credit in the Lean Period : Evidence from Bangladesh. Conference on Bangladesh in the 21st century at Harvard University, Cambridge, USA, the 4th IZA/World Bank

Wen Cong Lu and M. A. Hasan(2011) Effect of microcredit program on rural poverty alleviation: An empirical study of four major microcredit organizations at Monirampur Upazila in Bangladesh African Journal of Agricultural Research Vol. 6(26), pp. 5742-5746,
