ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

On the verge of the realization of my goal, how can I miss the opportunity to show my utter gratefulness to my guide Dr. Dilipbhāi Bhatt, who remained constantly with me with generous heart not only as a friend, philosopher and guide but as an elder brother bearing the fountain of inspiration? I have no words to express for his accuracy, humbleness and generosity to the limit of bearing pains and problems of others. To him and his family, I sincerely acknowledge my indebtedness. I am also grateful to Dr. Kamal Mehtā for his whole-hearted support and extend my thankfulness to Dr. J.K.Dodiyā, who constantly reminded me of the completion of the work, Dr. Dilip Barad, Dr. Zala, The principal Mālāni Sāheb of Kānakiyā College, Sāvar Kundalā and all my academic fraternity.

I must express my sense of gratitude towards Darbār Punjāvālā, the landmark of old traditions of folklore of Saurāshtra for his scholarly advice and guidance, Jayantbhāi Meghāni of Prasar for his readiness to help, the Chārans and others of oral traditions, known and unknown. I also extend my thankfulness to my cousin Ghanshyāmvālā and Umedbhāi Basiyā who spared their time when I was in need. I am glad to record the help and the warmth of friendship from Prof. Shailesh Raviyā, Prin. K.M. Bārad, Prof. Mukesh Rāval, Prof. Shiva Rājgor, Yogrājsinh and Dr. N.B. Gohil, colleagues – Dr. G.S. Pāl, Dr. Bhamar, Dr. Sandip Vyās, colleagues of my department Rajubhāi and Nishantbhāi. My thanks are also due to Mr. K.C. Bhuvā and Nilesh Computers for their technical help, librarians of different places, all the members of teching as well as non-teaching staff of my college, who inspired me throughout with their direct or indirect support.

Last but not the least is the source of all my efforts and resoluteness, my father and mother who sown the seeds in me, my brothers Harsurbhāi and Mahendrabhāi, directing me in the earlier stages and sisters whose affection has kept me steady.
I would be mistaken if I don’t express my sense of appreciation for the constant efforts and inspiration extended by my little family – My dear little Virendra, Gāyatribā, Anjanābā and their mother Padmābā who took all my pains to their head and constantly stood by me. My daughter Anjanābā studying in 8th solved most of the problems of typing and proofs, typing more than 400 pages for me with tremendous spirit. My younger daughter Gāyatribā, who was in charge of the Gujarati Dictionaries, assisted finding the words and idioms for me and my son Virendra, studying in 3rd was full of spirit to do everything and did everything for me, and my wife always together. I cannot even dream of completing such a work in time without their constant care.

Finally my sincere thanks are due to all from whom I have been gaining constant well wishes, knowledge and guidance. Expressing humble gratitude to all the sources of assistance and inspiration, I pray to the Sun God and Goddess Saraswati and bow my head in supplication to the feet of my mother and motherland.
