Acknowledgement

I record my deep sense of gratitude and respect to my teacher and guide, Professor R. S. Pathak, M.A. (Wales), Ph.D., D. Litt., Head of the Department of English and Other European Languages, Dr. Harisingh Gour University, Sagar, M.P., India, for his constant inspiration and encouragement to take up the present research work. He has graciously guided and painstakingly discussed and improved the contents of this thesis. His ready availability, devotion to research, constructive suggestions and constant inspiration has brought this thesis to completion. My indebtedness to him is immense as is my gratitude. I would also like to thank all the teachers of the department for their help and suggestions.

I wish to offer my appreciation to Dr. Sharon Cameron, Professor of English, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, U.S.A., for eliciting interest in my work and for her help in the collection of research material from Milton S. Eisenhower Library, Johns Hopkins University, U.S.A. I also offer my sincere thanks to Mrs. and Professor Fritz Eckstein for making available reference services of the Georg August Universitaet Bibliothek (Library of George August University) Goettingen, Germany, and for providing computer facilities, during my stay in Germany.

Finally, I express my sincere thanks and gratitude to my parents and husband, Dr. Sandeep Verma, for their encouragement and inspiration towards bringing this work to successful completion.

Richa Saxena