It is with a sense of fulfilment that I complete my research work and place on record my heartfelt gratitude to a galaxy of distinguished men and women who have helped in some way or the other towards its successful culmination.

The pride of place in the galaxy goes to my 'Guruji' Dr. Jacob S. Jaya Raj, M.Sc., Ph.D., from whom I have received the irredeemable debt of love and affection throughout the period of my research and I have had good fortune of being benefited by his intellectual companionship and masterly guidance. His sense of value, love for teaching and scholarship I deeply cherish. His constant care of me and meticulous supervision of my work inspite of his preoccupations as head of the department have given me encouragement and academic sustenance.
for which I am deeply behold to him. It is no exaggeration when I state that this thesis would not have been the light of the day but for his untiring efforts in meticulously going through every stage of the research project, culminating in the submission of this thesis.

I owe a special debt of gratitude to Dr. P.S. Sundara Rao, Professor of Biostatistics, Christian Medical College, Vellore for his help at every stage, from the beginning of pilot survey to the final stage of this thesis. He has been perpetual source of illustrative discussion throughout the research programme offering poignant insights in the recent developments and trend in Human Biology. It is his cooperation and confidence he infused in me that went along way in the successful completion of this project.

I would like to place on record of my deep sense of appreciation and gratitude for all kinds of help for computer analysis of my data, I have received from Dr. V.B. Singh and Dr. S.B. Nagi, Council for Social Development, New Delhi.
The enlightening discussions which I had with Prof. K.C. Malhotra, Prof. D.P. Mukherjee, Prof. Goswami, Dr. Raghubheer Sing, Dr. Lakshmanudu, helped me solve many of the problems for which I am much indebted to them.

I thank Dr. V.S. Deep Kumar and Dr. A.P. Reddy for envincing sustained interest in my work.

I thank to Dr. P. Chengal Reddy and Dr. Narahari for making helpful suggestions and critical reading of the manuscript and Mr. A. Papa Rao for his goodwill and help. I had fruitful discussions with Prof. T. Rama-chandraiah, Head, Department of Anthropology, Mysore University, Mysore and also former Head of our department who encouraged me a lot to proceed with my work. I thank to the Head of the department for providing facilities for this work.

I also thank to Dr. Balasiddhamuni, Lecturer in Statistics, S.V.University, Tirupati for his valuable suggestions in the final stages of statistical analysis of the data.
Among other dignitaries who have helped and encouraged me in various ways are Mr. T. Eswarprasad, Miss C. Uma Rani, Mr. G. Suresh Kumar, Mr. G. Sreenivas Rao, Mr. T.P.K. Reddy, Miss Y. Vijaya Lakshmi, Miss U.F. Vijayavani, Mr. Raghunath and a number of friends. I owe them all a deep debt of gratitude.

I am also beholden to Mr. Ashok of the Dept. of English, SVU College for Engineering, Tirupati for his generous gestures which were of immense help in the shaping of this thesis.

Special acknowledgements are due to the "Anthropological Survey of India" for providing research fellowship in support of the present work.

I should also like to place a record of my deep sense of appreciation for the understanding, sympathy and encouragement I have received from my parents, Sri A. Swaminathan and Smt. A. Hemavati and sisters, A. Sreemukhi and A. Vidya Rani.

My heartful thanks to Mr. V.S. Rajan and Mr. B. Ravi Kumar for their diligent typing.
My personal thanks to Miss B. Lakshmi, who provided me those little comforts and help especially during the last stages of the work.

Lastly, my thanks to all those who have assisted me in my field survey and responded to the questionnaires patiently.
