Acknowledgements:

A protracted and lively expedition from exploring the departmental research work at SUMBA has been very thrilling experience. This dissertation signifies the outgrowth of this journey that initiated with a prospect to participate in various academic exchange and research program of the department during 2011 to 2014. The experiences during these more than three years period which were partly spent at SUMBA have left me greatly augmented and have broadened my intellectual horizons. I was given a valid taste of scientific research and brought to the intellectual foundations reinforcing the social sciences during my tenure of study at SUMBA. This dissertation is the outcome of the inspiring environment that SUMBA has endowed me for the study and I take this occasion to thank many individuals without their generous support, guidance and encouragement, this drive of research would not have been as prolific and appealing as it is finally attested to be.

I am extremely grateful to the SUMBA and all staff bearers of the entire university, for giving me an opportunity to carry out this pioneering study. At the outset, I must express my feelings of gratitude to Prof. (Dr.) Pratapsinh L. Chauhan, then the Dean, Department of Business Management, and now Hon. Vice Chancellor, Saurashtra University, Rajkot, Gujarat, for the entire arrangement, direction and felicitation for undertaking and completing the study very successfully in time. I have been continuously receiving significant lead and guidance from respected Pratapsinhjee Sir. Without his sincere encouragements and leadership in the study, it would not have been possible to carry out the study and produce this Report.

I am extremely grateful to my supervisor, all time mentor, my career directive Prof. (Dr.) Sanjay Bhayani Sir, for his excellent support, remarkable guidance and consistent motivation. I express my sincere gratitude, whole heartedly, to him for accepting me as his doctoral student and guiding me during the entire tenure of my study years of this research. Many gatherings and conversations, those I was fortunate to have had together with him, helped me conquer a better perceptive of issues pertaining to academic research in general and corporate governance in particular. He was also instrumental in providing me the resources to procure the data on which much of this research is based. Close supervision and outstanding support of Dr. Sanjay Bhayani sir, both in the academic sphere and beyond has been a source of inspiration and encouragement from my initiation of the study till the writing of this report of the research. He taught me the intricacies of empirical research and his insights, and critical eye have made me appreciate the challenges and pitfalls associated with it. He extended and invested a great deal of his most remarkable and valuable time and I owe a huge debt of gratitude to him for my improvement as a researcher and especially getting to the spot where I am today. In addition, I enjoyed the hospitality of his family during visits to his residence on many occasions.

Apart from providing me with much needed physical and mental force, the distribution of my time across the SUMBA enabled me to have the opportunity of meeting a large number of individuals who were influential in my progress as a Ph.D. student. I am highly thankful to Dr. Hitesh Shukla, Mr. Mayur Parmar, Mr. Detrojabhai, Mr. Bhattbhai, and many more for their assistance in the compliance as well all arrangements at the department for entire table work related to the research study. At the SUMBA, I would like to thank all my colleague Ph.D. pursuant especially, Father Benny Joseph, Mr. Ashish Nathvani, Ms. Hitiksha Joshi, Mrs. Kinjal Bhatt, Mr. Nailesh Limbasia and others. It has been quite a journey ever since that time of joining Ph.D. program together and it is difficult to believe that almost three years have rolled by since we came together at SUMBA during the program to probe the academic horizons.

My sincere appreciation is also owed to Dr. Akshai Aggarwal, Hon. Vice Chancellor of Gujarat Technological University (GTU), Ahmedabad, (my current Institution) for his most remarkable time sparing as and when required to lead me on the right direction and filling the gap of my thoughtful process on the subject matter. He has always dissipated my requirements to move further on my doctoral over and above my official job responsibilities as Deputy Director at GTU. My gratitude is also due to Ms. Hiral Trivedi and Mr. Hitesh Gujarati, my admin assistant and Research Associate respectively at GTU for assisting me in the data compilation and report formation. It was non another than Dr. Anilkumar, Librarian, IIMA, who assisted me to extract the large pool of data required for this study from IIMA Library. I would also like to thank a lot to Mr. Viralkumar Navik, Library Professional, IIMA for the enormous help in coordinating all technical requirements and other arrangements concerning the professional database access at IIMA.
Without whose ever insight and encouragement throughout my life, I would have never been to this spot of my life and they are my parent and my family. My father has been my forever motivational source and my mother has made me understand each and every situation in the life. Without their continuous inspiration, I would have been curtailed to achieve my whole Educational Credentials. My wife Mrs. Sejal has very instrumentally performed her significant role in recreation of the entire doctoral program as well as my life. My daughters Ms. Rishita and Ms. Twisha have also been engaged actively to hold up my confidence in understanding me to be detached from my accountability towards their growth and completing this study. Finally, in this way, I am entirely indebted to my whole family who endured some of the period of my absence and whose constant faith in my abilities enabled me to concentrate on research and studies. This entire work is dedicated to them.

Once again, heartiest thanks to all of you!!!

Mitesh Dadhania

Rajkot, Gujarat, India

May 12, 2015.