ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I fall short of words to express my gratitude for the constant encouragement and guidance of my teacher and guide Dr. S. GURUSAMY, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology. His encouragement immensely helped me in my present endeavour. I am greatly indebted to him.

I am extremely thankful to Dr. L. THARABHAI, Professor and Head, Department of Sociology, Madurai Kamarai University who served as external member of the Doctoral Committee and offered invaluable guidance.

My heartfelt thanks to Br. G. Pankajam, former Vice-Chancellor, Dr. P. Kanniapan, former Registrar and present Vice-Chancellor, Alagappa University, Karaikudi, and Dr. P. Susilakirubavati, Dy. Registrar (AC), for their support in getting a fellowship from the National Foundation for Communal Harmony (NFCH).

I specially thank Dr. G. Pananithurai, Dean, Faculty of Rural Social Sciences, and Dr. ML A. Sudhir, Dean, Student Affairs for their concern towards me.

During the course of my work I have received guidance, love and cooperation in abundant measure. I record my obligation to Dr. T. Rajendran and Dr. P. Anandha Rajakumar, who have been unfailing sources of help and encouragement.

Grateful acknowledgements are also due to Mr. A. Velmurugan and Mr.M. Jeyaseelan for their assistance in conducting the pretest.
I express my special thanks to Ms. I. Pândiammal, Is. V, Thirukkani, Ms. B. Krishnaveni, Ms. U.J. Silpa and Mr. Sabesh Manihandan for their help in the processing of the data and typing.

It is my duty to place on record my thanks to the Dalit Resource Center, Madurai, the Tamilnadu Theological Seminary, Madurai, the Center for Social Analysis, Madurai, the CEDA Trust, Dindigul, and Sri. Vemkateshwara University, Tirupathi, for extending their support in the collection of reviews.

My sincere thanks to Dr. ML A. Jeyaraju, Professor of English, for his help in editing my thesis.

I specially thank the National Foundation for Communal Harmony (NFCH) for its financial support to this study. Without this assistance I could not have completed my work in time.

I thank my respondents and contact persons Mr. M. Karupiah of K. Ayyampalayam Village, Mr. A. Abdulwab of Old Batlagundu, Mr. U. Mahalingam and their family members for their help in meeting the converted people in the study villages.

I do not have enough words to express my feelings towards my mother, brothers and sisters for their consistent encouragement and their interest in my progress, which have been sources of inspiration all through my studies.

Finally, I extend my thanks to each and every one who has helped me in some way or other in this endeavour.
