I want to thank ‘God’, the Almighty, for guiding my life through all tests in the past years and blessed me with good health, courage and patience to carry on this work even when the going got tough.

It is my cherished privilege to express my deep sense of gratitude to my gracious teacher and supervisor, Dr. V. K. Varshney, Scientist-F and Head, Chemistry Division, Forest Research Institute (FRI), Dehra Dun. I emphatically express my sincere regards to him for his guidance, timely suggestions and painstaking efforts.

I am highly indebted to my co-supervisors, Dr. Sanjay Naithani, Scientist-F and Head, Chemistry of Forest Products Division, Institute of Wood Science and Technology, and Prof. Dr. Ishwar Chandra Dutta, Chairman, Service Commission, Tribhuvan University, Nepal, for encouragement and inspiring for the higher study. I further extend my thanks to my co-supervisors for their encouragements and inspiration.

My special thanks and appreciation goes to Prof. M. K. Balla, Coordinator, NUFU, Project, Mr. Abadhesh Singh, Coordinator, MemCoE Project and Dr. Santosh Raymajhi, Coordinator, ComForm Project for providing partial financial support for Ph. D. study, Prof. C. P. Upadhayaya, Dean, Institute of Forestry (IOF) and Mr. H. P. Tripathi, Campus Chief, Institute of Forestry, Pokhara Campus, Pokhara for his constant support during the research period.

I record my obligations to all Scientists of Chemistry Division, FRI, Dr. Y.C. Tripathi, Dr. Vineet Kumar, Dr. Rashmi, and Dr. Rakesh Kumar, and Dr. P. K. Gupta, Head Cellulose and Paper Division, FRI, Dehra Dun for all necessary support, encouragement and inspiration during the course of my research work.

I express my sincere gratitude to Mr. S. K. Sheel, Mr. Jawaid Ashraf, and Er. Shiv Kumar Manjan for their guidance and valuable suggestions to carry out statistical analysis.

I am highly grateful to Dr. P. P. Bhojvaid, IFS, Director, Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun, India for benign attitude and for providing me all necessary facilities to conduct my Ph. D. work in this institute.

My sincere thanks are due to Mr. P. K. Kukreti, Mr. Praveen Onial, Mr. C. P. Maithani, Mr. Ashok, Mr. B. K. Das, Mr. Vikas, Mr. A. K. Singh, Mr. Ashwani, Mr. Rajendra Prasad, Mr. Loknath Subedi, Mr. Suhail, Mr. Anil, and Mr. Anuj for extending their constant support throughout the investigation. I duly acknowledge the cooperation rendered in various ways by the staff of the Chemistry Division, FRI, Dehra Dun.

I especially want to thank my colleagues Dr. Madhusudan Chamoli, Jainath Sah, Luthful Haque Khan, Prasoon Kumar Kaushik, Himani Pandey, Nivedita Sheel, Ajeet Lakheda and Ram Narayan Sah for providing a stimulating and cooperative atmosphere in the laboratory.

My special thanks go to the District Forest Officers, Nepal, different Community Forest User Groups and their community members for their kind cooperation to conduct the survey and collect the plant material.

It is personal touch of emotion and love to my wife Arpana Shah, everlasting smile, her presence by my side, immense encouragement; sacrifice and selfless persuasion have been a source of inspiration to me. Her unending love and trust keeps me energized in all my endeavors.

I owe my deep sense of appreciation to my loving daughter Kamakshi Shah, her for their sincere help, unending support and love.

No words, no language is ever sufficient to express my feelings towards my beloved Papa and Mummy for their blessings, support and untriring patience displayed. They have been the strongest influence in my life always being there as guiding source whenever I lost direction. Whatever, I am today, I owe it entirely to my parents and I thank Almighty for it.

Finally, I wish to thank all those whose names have not figured above but have helped me in various ways during my research work.
