Acknowledgement

My experiences in the doctoral program offered me opportunities to learn and grow both professionally and personally. This programme would not have been possible without valuable help and guidance of various people to whom I am immensely grateful. I would like to mention some of the people who have contributed to this research, directly and indirectly.

I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude to my guide, Prof. Lina D. Kashyap, Centre for Disability Studies and Action, Tata Institute of Social Sciences for her supervision, guidance, and advice. She has been a constant source of encouragement, and support to me. Thank you madam for the much needed motivation which guided me through all stages of this study. Thanks for the many insightful conversations during the development of the ideas in this thesis, and the helpful comments on the text.

A special word of gratitude is due to Prof. S. Parasuraman, Director, T.I.S.S who has been brought drastic progress within the institutions which not only provided the requisite infrastructure but also provided me a personal computer to work within my room without which it would not have been possible for me to complete this study. I also thank Prof. Lakshmi Lingam, former Dean of Research and Development, whose thoughtful enquiries regarding the research progress from time to time and valuable suggestions were indeed great morale boosters for me.

For financial support, I am most indebted to the Prof. Yesudian C. A. K., School of Health System Studies, T.I.S.S who supported me financially in the early days of this programme. I also thank the ICSSR for the fellowship which I have been awarded without which it would not have been possible for me to complete this study. I am also deeply indebted to the Prof. Padma Sarngapani, Centre for studies in Sociology of Education, T.I.S.S. for the DAAD fellowship (four months) which I have been awarded which enhanced my knowledge towards the policy and developmental aspects of persons with disabilities in the German context.
I am indebted to the Prof. Saxena, Prof. D.P. Singh, Dr. Anil Suthar and Ravindra, faculty members at the Centre for Research Methodology, T.I.S.S who always inspired us with their extensive knowledge and progressive thoughts and suggestions. I am also grateful to my Doctoral Advisory Committee members Dr. Nandini Manjrekar, Centre for Sociology of Education, Dr. Rambabu, Centre for Exclusion and Inclusive Policy, and Dr. Madhura Nag Choudhary, Centre for Disability Studies and Action for their valuable suggestions and guidance during this study.

I am also grateful to the respondents and persons who extended their constant support and generous co-operation to me during my field study. I am also thankful to all library staff who were generous in extending their support during dissertation writing.

I would like to express special thanks to Prof. Avinash Pandit, and my friends Sudha, Rohini Shinde, Prabha, and Rama Moorty for the much needed discussions and their valuable suggestions which added value to the content of this thesis. I thank all my friends at T.I.S.S. who have been beside me at all times. Some of them are Pebam, Rohini, Asha, Venkatesh Murthy, Surendhra Balerao, Krishna, Devan, Dhaneshwar, Datta, Vinay, Jennifer, Amrutha, Toli, Mohan, Ujjawala etc. I would like to thank Hima Giri, for influencing me so deeply to believe that I can always make my dreams come true.

Lastly, I would like to express my gratitude to all my family members. Without their encouragement and understanding it would have been impossible to me to finish this work.

Thank you to all of you to making this journey enriching and memorable.
