“Sometimes you have to go up really high to understand how small you are” Felix Baumgartner, record-setting Austrian Skydiver

I have been able to complete my project due to the guidance and encouragement of my guide, the experts, my peers and all others who have directly or indirectly contributed in shaping it.

My heartfelt gratitude to the people who made this project possible.

Great teachers are vehicles of transformation. My guide, Dr V.V Manerikar who demolished all my myths of PhD guides being unapproachable and not having time for their students. She channelized my thinking in the right direction, resulting in several rewarding ‘aha’ moments. Her guidance and mentoring resulted in the realization of confidence in my abilities—the essence of a research student’s mindset. She is a role model of confidence, inner strength, humility and an open mind. But for her invaluable guidance and mentoring in all aspects of a PhD student’s life this project would never have been accomplished.

To Dr (Mrs) C.G. D’Lima without whose encouragement and vision this project would not have been conceived.

“Ideas are worthless. Execution is everything” Scott Adams

A big thank you to Dr Kalim Khan for the execution of this experimental and longitudinal study. This could be achieved only through his personal involvement and comprehensive understanding in the substance of the study and the details of execution.
“Successful people are always looking for opportunities to help others. Unsuccessful people always ask “What’s in it for me?” Brian Tracy

Thanks to all my ‘PhD friends’ who regularly kept giving me invaluable advice, encouragement and inputs on the way.

Special thanks to Ms Swati Ghag and the office staff, Ms Aparna and the Library staff, Mr Hasan, Mr Osaid Koti and the computer staff.

Words prove inadequate to express my immense gratitude to my parents and my family members who not only gave me the freedom, support and encouragement to pursue my goals; but also reposed faith in my abilities to accomplish them.
