ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The rising and the setting of the sun is not only just happening, he is the oldest and only alive eyewitness of the processes of formation and evolution of this universe. He has seen so many ages, so many wars, so many struggles of survival of creatures and civilizations, endurance of heroes who has believed in themselves. There are so many thing took shape between two horizons of east and west. Same as man sees so many things between birth and death.

The present work is also not just happening. There are so many interesting stories behind every page of this work. From an academic point of view it is a work of research it is true but there are so many things played very significant role in the journey of research. To achieve this summit there was many hurdles, the first and for most hurdles was my own nature and ignorance. I am very much thankful to this research which taught me how to deal with one owns limitations.

Opportunity is the key word in this present competitive world. This word has its own significant for the people of different area. Someone grab the opportunity for educational progress, some for economical, political, social, etc. While writing acknowledgement I also want to grab an opportunity to remember each and every one who has became the support to me for reaching this summit.

The list is very long because my journey started from the very bottom or in another words I can say from ground zero. I hearty remember my English teacher Sri A. P Shah who taught me ABC of this language. His dedication and concern for the development of the student made a very deep influence in my mind regarding the caliber of a teacher. May, god give him a very long and healthy life.
Every child has proud on his parents; I am not different from others. I feel proud to be the son of teachers. Every child has an advantage to learn from his parents but I feel I am luckier as far as the matter of learning and setting living ideals for life. My father Dr. Bhagirath Brahmbhatt and mother Mrs. Meena Brahmbhatt living school (Ashram) for me. I am thankful to them for letting me allow growing on my natural way. They never impose their vision and ideals but set before me by becoming and living those ideals. I am lucky that form the very childhood I got an opportunity to grow in the environment of literature. The walls of my house are not made from bricks and cement but from poems, stories and essays, all due to my father and his austerity of words. I thank my parents for their nurturing care in my work. Dhairya and Falguni my brother and sister in law, I thank them for being the listener of my ideas for this research. I cannot forget Ved my nephew whose refreshing smiling face always provided me a push from within for standing firm in the exhausting situation during research work. Thanks for making me feel unwind mentally. I value the blessing of my grandmother Seetaba. My fiancé Paresha, I am thankful to her that she gave me enough room of time to work and encouraged me to achieve the summit.

Friend in need is a friend in deed. Friendship is the only relationship which man establishes on the bases of his own maturity and understanding and that relationship becomes the source of many valuable things for leading life towards the set ideals. I can never forget the support which I have received from my friends during this work. I would like to remember Devanshi Shah who took a deep interest in my work and her constant follow-ups made me active and attentive towards my work. I thank her for being always the first receiver of written or metalized ideas. My colleague Mr. Sanjay Patel, Dr. M V Patel and Mr. Vikas Bhavsar their love and academic guidance became valuable to this work. I thank you them from bottom of my heart. Mitul Patel and members of Sri Aurobindo center Vallabh Vidhyanagar and Visnagar I also remember them for their well wishes.

Dr. R P Jadeja, Vallabh Vidyanagar who planted the seed of this work long back while discussion with him. I found the idea of choosing such subject. I have received helps from different scholars of the literature and Indian and western philosophy. I have discussed the research problems with many scholars like Dr. S S Kulkarni, Goa. Dr Alok Pandey, Pondicherry. Dr. R Y Deshpandey, Pondicherry. Sri Kaivalya Smarth, Surat. Dr. D S Mishra, Dr. Bhagirath Brahmbhatt, Vallabh Vidyanagar. Prof. Makrand Brahma, Ahmedabad. I am also thankful to the honorable chairman and members of DRC Sardar Patel University, Vallabh Vidyanagar. I thank you all for valuable and enlighten suggestions from their great experience.

Dr R K Mandaliya, my philosopher and guide. Do my words have capacity enough to express my gratefulness to him? My answer will be in negation. On the day of initiation, he had explained a very clear picture which helped me to visualize my work into different chapters and that clarity of concept became very useful to me during the certain fall points. His guidance made it very convenient and enjoyable to find the pearls from the deep ocean of knowledge. I thank him and offer my pranam on this occasion.

At last importantly I remember and offer my all thoughts and feelings at the lotus feet of Sri Aurobindo and the Mother without their grace and arrangement this work could not have been possible. I have felt the constant care and guidance from them always and the study of Savitri brought many changes in my approach towards life and its forces. What I have learnt is this

Always a few will be left whom the threatenings of Fate cannot conquer Always earth has sons whose courage waits not on Fortune.
