

Bajaj IB, Lele SS and Singhal RS. (2009). A statistical approach to optimization of fermentative production of poly (gamma glutamic acid) from Bacillus licheniformis NCIM 2324, Bioresource Technology. 100, 826-832.

Degeest B and De Vuyst L. (1999). Indication that the nitrogen source influences both amount and size of exopolysaccharides produced by Streptococcus thermophilus LY03 and modelling of the bacterial growth and exopolysaccharide production in a complex medium. Applied and Environmental Microbiology. 65(7), 2863–2870.

Devi ES, Vijayendra SVN and Shamala TR. (2012). Exploration of rice bran, an agro-industry residue, for the production of intra and extracellular polymers by mycelial biomass and exopolysaccharides by Agrocybe cylindracea. Bioresource Technology. 96, 1175-1182.

Sinorhizobium meliloti MTCC 100. Biocatalysis Agricultural Biotechnology. 1, 80-84.

Roukas T. (1994). Ethanol production from nonsterilized carob pod extract by free and immobilized Saccharomyces cerevisiae cells using fed-batch culture. Biotechnology and Bioengineering. 43, 189–9 culture of Pleurotus citrinopileatus. Journal of Food and Drug Analysis. 16(2), 61-67.

204

Vijayabaskar P, Starlin, SB, Shankar T, Sivakumar T and Anandapandian KTK. (2011). Quantification and characterization of exopolysaccharides from Bacillus subtilis MTCC 121, Advances in Biological Research. 5, 71-76.

www.digitalproteus.com/medical_microbiology/

www.textbookofbacteriology.net

