ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

As I submit this Ph.D. thesis there is a deep sense of satisfaction and joy of completing the research I had undertaken inspite of difficulties. There is a feeling of gratitude for all those who have helped me make this endeavour possible and worthwhile.

The list of people whom I would like to thank is unending and the space here does not permit me to take that liberty to list them all. However I would like to acknowledge some people without whom this study would have not materialised into the final shape it bears today. My gratitude to Dr. M. H. Makwana, Head, Department of Sociology and Chair, Dr. B. R Ambedkar of Gujarat University who was gracious enough to be my supervisor after the sad demise of late Prof. A. R. Shah. Dr. Makwana's availability, systematic guidance, and support have been an immense help in carrying out and completing this research.

I would like to acknowledge the late Prof. A. R. Shah for his understanding, encouragement and appreciation for initiating this research in the field of NGOs. Thanks to Dr. F. Franco, S.J for his comments on the initial stage of my work, who with his familiarity with the NGO sector helped to sharpen the direction of this study.

The oppressed and marginalised of Bhal, Dhandhuka, Sabarkantha and Banaskantha regions of Gujarat have been my inspiration and encouragement in taking up this research. I hope this research in someway contributes towards their development which would be well-managed and to the efforts of change facilitators working with these communities.

I would like to thank the members of the Governing Boards, staff and service users of the NGOs studied for their cooperation and collaboration. My special thanks to Chinmayi Desai, and Viraj Pandit for coordinating my visits, meeting and interviews in their respective NGOs.
Acknowledgements

Thanks to Anita Dixit and Paul D'Souza for their technical help in the use of Statistic Programme in Social Sciences (SPSS). Thanks to Dr. Kantibhai Patel who introduced me and facilitated for me the administration procedures for Ph. D., and Bharat Parmar who helped me with the administrative requirements of Gujarat University. Thanks to Beena Christian and Minakshi Macwan for their assistance in the production of this thesis with their computer skills.

I would also like to thank the director of Behavioural Science Centre (BSC), Mr. Prasad Chacko for his support and the space he provided me to complete this work inspite of the organisational work pressure during the Kutch earthquake in 2001 and Violence and massacre of Gujarat in 2002 where BSC was deeply involved in relief, rehabilitation, Human Rights and legal work. Many thanks to Rajesh, Shobhana, Ila and other colleagues at Behavioural Science Centre who helped me with data collection of some respondents who lacked a formal education. Thanks to Babubhai, Sandeep and Manoj of BSC for their help in photocopying the work.

I want to thank my friends and relatives who made an effort and bore with my social distancing from them without which I would have not been able to complete this work in time.

Last but not the least my gratitude to my colleague and friend Persis Ginwalla for her persevering support and critical comments on the work, sometimes to the point of annoyance, and editorial help which has given the thesis the final shape which I had intended.

Once again, my gratitude and appreciation to each and every one who has contributed to this research endeavour, and, for lack of space, whose names do not appear here.

James C. Dabhi