ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am obliged to Professor Pravin Sheth, Reader and Head, Department of Political Science, School of Social Sciences, Gujarat University for his guidance and valuable suggestions which have been helpful in completing this study.

As not much has been done in this field, it required considerable efforts to complete the work. The nature of study had inbuilt hurdles for collection of the relevant information. The study could not have been carried out without assistance from a wide variety of sources. I am indebted to the senior civil servants, politicians and industrialists who have generously given me their time and helped me with valuable data and advice on matters of significance to this study. I am particularly grateful to Shri Manubhai D. Shah, Director, Consumer Education Research Centre, Ahmedabad; Shri C.M. Joshi, IAS (Rtd.); Dr. Dwijendra Tripathi, Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad; Shri Dwijen Desai, Gujarat Vidhan Sabha Secretariat, Gandhinagar for their valuable guidance and the time they spared for me to discuss the issues at great length related to my study.

I am also indebted to the University Grants Commission for the financial support extended to me in the course of this study. The study material for the present work was mostly available in the libraries of Gujarat Chamber of Commerce and Industry Ahmedabad, Indian Institute of Management Ahmedabad, Gujarat University, Gujarat Vidyapith and the Vidhan Sabha Secretariat, Gandhinagar. I should like to thank the librarians and the other staff for the library facilities that I have received in pursuance of my work.

My warmest thanks are due to Ms. Pushpa Nair who has typed with great accuracy and speed and to Mr. G.D. Patel for the excellent cartography of the figures.

I owe to my husband whose wise companionship has sustained me unfailingly throughout the long period of this study.

Finally I am indebted to my son for his helpful assistance and cheerful encouragement. Without his support I know this thesis could never have been completed.
