ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present work is accomplished under the able guidance of Professor K.V. Narayana Rao, Professor and Chairman, Board of Studies, Department of Political Science and Public Administration, Sri Venkateswara University, Tirupati. He has been a constant source of inspiration and encouragement to me. He is a hard task master and therefore it is not surprising that he demands a conscientious, prompt and intelligent work from his scholars. His guidance and counselling always bear his inimitable characteristics of intellectual freedom, mental discipline and searching spirit. It is a rare privilege and illuminating experience for me to learn under such a great teacher. It is very difficult to acknowledge what I owe to him in the preparation and completion of this work.

I am extremely thankful to Dr. Agarala Easwara Reddy, formerly Speaker of the Andhra Pradesh Legislative Assembly and presently Vice-President of the Indian Political Science Association, for his valuable suggestions at different stages of this work.

I am grateful to all staff members of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration of Sri Venkateswara University, for their help and encouragement at various stages of this work.
