Acknowledgement

I thank God the almighty for his constant blessing all through my research work. Without his blessing this thesis would not have seen the light of the day.

I have been fortunate in the long course of my research work in the Dept. of Ecology and Environmental Science, Assam University. Today at its completion, I would graciously wish to convey my gratitude and appreciation for the help, advice and for the way how this thesis come to shape, to all the people who have been involved with it.

My heartfelt thanks to my guide Dr. Ajit Kumar Das, Associate Professor, Deptt. of Ecology and Environmental Science, Assam University, for his strict meticulous guidance, constructive criticism, scientific supervision and generous efforts during the progress of the research work. Without his immense help and guidance this thesis would not have been completed.

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude and venerable regards to my Co guides Prof B.K Dutta and Prof P.K. Singh for their intellectual inputs, valuable suggestions, who inspite of their very busy schedule has been very patient and understanding. It is a privilege for me to have them as co guides.

I also thank to the Head of the Department & faculty members of the Department of Ecology & Environmental Science for their cooperation during my Research work.

I am really indebted to the people of Kom tribe of Sagang, Thayong, Kakching mantak, Kom keirap, K.R. Lane and Khoirentak khumen villages for parting with their valuable information, without whose help and co-operation the investigation would not have been possible.

I should not forget to show my deep indebtedness to S. Jekendra Singh, Associate professor, CAU for guiding me in some biochemical analysis. Special mention for friends and my research fellows S. Sumitra, Dr. M. Roma Devi, M. Haripriya, S. Joylani, Dr. N. Deshorjit, K. Sanjita, L. Linthoingambi, N. Rita and Kowsher Alam for their encouragement, help and delightful company.

I am grateful to the Deputy Director B.S.I. Eastern Circle, Shillong for the permission to consult their Herbarium and Library. I am thankful to L. Binokumari Devi, Librarian, Tribal research centre for providing facilities to consult their library for the tribal literature, books & references.
I wish to thank to Fancy studio especially to Chalmani (Palu) for the preparation of photo plates, manuscript justification and final print out.

Moreover, my sincere gratitude’s goes to my parents, in-laws, Sibbling for supporting me from their heart and soul throughout my research work.

Finally, I should not forget to acknowledge my husband and sons who have borne with me through all the difficulties in the course of this study. The constant encouragement, unending support and faith of my husband, was the guiding force and inspiriting to motivate me towards completion of this thesis. The perseverance with which my children bore the unavoidable separations when I should be devoting to their needs, during the course of the study will always be treasured by me.