Acknowledgements

0. Prelude
1. Some Preliminaries
   1.0. Introduction
   1.1. The Meaning and Nature of Prepositions
   1.2. The Concept of 'Preposition'
   1.3. 'Preposition' as a Semantics-Syntactic Component
   1.4. Classification of Prepositions
2. Semantic Functions of Prepositions
   2.0. Introduction
   2.1. Prepositions Denoting Time-Relations
   2.2. Prepositions Denoting Space-Relations
   2.3. Prepositions Denoting Manner-Relations
   2.4. Prepositions Denoting Purpose, Cause, Means, Instrument, etc.
   2.5. Miscellaneous Relations
3. Syntactic Functions of Prepositions
   3.0. Introduction
   3.1. Prepositions as Structural Elements
   3.2. Prepositions as Adverbials
   3.3. Prepositions as Conjunctions
   3.4. Prepositions Used at the End Position
3.5. Prepositions 'to' and 'for' before Indirect Object
3.6. Prepositions Used after Adjectives

4. Transformation
4.0. Introduction
4.1. Preposition-Deletion
4.2. Preposition-Addition
4.3. Preposition-Substitution
4.4. Preposition-Movement
4.5. Prepositions Used in place of Adverbs
4.6. Interchangeability of Prepositions
4.7. Optionality in the Use of Prepositions

5. Restrictions on the Use of Prepositions
5.0. Introduction
5.1. Semantic Restrictions
5.2. Syntactic Restrictions
5.3. Thematic Role
5.4. Grammatical Role
5.5. Semantico-Syntactics
5.6. A Synthetic Approach
5.7. Prepositions in Idioms

Conclusion

Bibliography