GESTURES CHECK LIST

A brief note on Gestures

Gesture is defined as a motion of the limbs or body made to express thought or to emphasise speech. According to Morris (1984) a gesture is any action that sends a visual signal to the onlooker. To become a gesture, an act has to be seen by some one else and has to communicate some piece of information. It can do this either because the gesturer deliberately set out to send a signal - as when he waves his hand - or it can do it only incidentally.

Gestures play an important role as medium of nonverbal communication to convey messages effectively. Some examples are

The shoulder shrug, Thumbs up, Shaking hands, Thumb and finger rub, hand to face, Mouth guard, Nose lowering, Caller pull, Arm folders, Leg gestures, Head nod, Head shake, Eye signals, Rolling lips, Body lowering, Pointer including eye and fingers. Sitting position, Wink of the eye etc, are all various types of gestures of communication.

The following are some ways in which gestures are produced by people. The aim of this checklist is to find out the difference in the gestures used. It is not necessary that one man in a short interview should show all the gestures. Different people show different patterns of gestures. You should have to mark only the gestures used by an individual. You should mark the check list with the corresponding alphabet of each gesture.
Gesture rating scale rating categories

The 10 rating categories are identified by corresponding codes. 10 out of 10 categories have a corresponding code letter. The 'other' category is coding by number and information about what occurred is than recorded by the examines on the attached numbered lined page.
