ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a great pleasure to express my heartfelt gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. Ram Niwas, Professor, Department of English, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra who not only encouraged me to undertake this work but also provided valuable suggestions during the preparation and completion of this study. It is his brilliant insights and enlightening comments that have made my study of literature a living and relevant experience.

I am especially grateful to the chairperson, Prof. Sunita Siroha and other teachers of the department for their generous encouragement and precious suggestions from time to time. I am also indebted to Prof. Dinesh Kumar for kindling my interest in Saul Bellow.

I acknowledge my indebtedness to my family, my parents, in-laws, brother & sisters for their support. I especially thank my husband Manish Gupta and my son Pulkit for their sacrifice during my work. It would not have been possible to complete the work without their patience and support.

I record my sense of appreciation for the staff of the American Centre Library, New Delhi, Jawahar Lal Nehru Library, Kurukshetra University Library and OUCIP Hyderabad for making the relevant material available to me.

Finally, thanks to one and all who helped me in the process of completing my Ph.D.
