ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Most importantly, I would like to thank the almighty God, for it is under his grace that we live, learn and flourish. Thank God for the wisdom and perseverance that he has bestowed upon me during this research project, and indeed, throughout my life. I owe my very existence to Him. May His name be exalted, honored, and glorified.

This thesis is a small tribute to the two extraordinary persons, Dr. Mandeep Kaur and Dr. Balwinder Singh, from a student still anxious to learn from them. You two with your support made this achievement joyful and an excellent experience for me. I see myself unable to even express my feelings about the love and patience that I observed from you.

I feel myself extremely fortunate to have Dr. Mandeep Kaur, Reader, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, as my supervisor who gave me the freedom to explore on my own and at the same time the guidance to recover when my steps faltered. Being an outstanding researcher, she tried to hold me to a high research standard and enforced strict validations for each research result, and thus taught me how to do research. I am grateful to her for instructing me about how to write academic papers, had confidence in me when I doubted myself, and was always accessible. I am also thankful to her for encouraging the use of correct grammar in my writings and for carefully reading and commenting on countless revisions of this manuscript. It would be no exaggeration to say that this study would not have been possible without her constructive and thought-provoking suggestions. During the five years of my PhD, she was just like my elder sister with whom I could share all my problems and secrets and every time her pleasant smile and caring ways brought new hopes in me. As a result, research life became smooth and rewarding for me. One simply could not wish for a better supervisor than her. Thanks for all your caring ways Mam!

Life blessed me with the opportunity to meet Dr. Balwinder Singh, Reader, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University, who has been a mentor and more importantly like a friend. I have seen in him an excellent advisor who can bring the best out from his students and a nice human being who is honest, fair and helpful to others. Despite his busy schedule, he always found the time to discuss my ideas for this thesis, helping shape, mould and push the writing process forward. Besides this, he introduced me to the relevant methodological approaches in the simplest way and his teachings inspired me to work on the empirical part of this dissertation. I would like to thank him for running a chain of workshops during my research work. Without his encouragement, constant guidance (and the Tender Loving Care for me), I could not have finished this dissertation. I am indebted to him for his self-less guidance. Thank You so much Sir!

My profound thanks go to Dr. Lakhwinder Singh, Head, Department of Commerce and Business Management, Guru Nanak Dev University for stimulating research and publication in the department and for providing the congenial working environment. My heart is filled with gratitude for all my respectable teachers namely Dr. Fulbagh Singh, Dr. B. S. Hundal, Dr. Amarjit Singh Sidhu, Dr. H.S. Sandhu, Dr. Subhash Chander, Dr. Raghubir Singh, and the highly regarded faculty members for their insights, guidance and support at different stages of my research work.
It is my supreme sense of duty to duly acknowledge the adequate and timely financial assistance provided by the University Grant Commission. In this regard, I would also like to thank the staff at GNDU for administering the research grant.

I also salute the services and generosity of the authorities at the Departmental Libraries and Bhai Gurdas Library of GNDU, Ratan Tata Library, New Delhi, Main University Library, Punjabi University, Patiala and the Departmental Library of UBS, Panjab University, Chandigarh. I am also thankful to the system staff at computer labs of the Dept. of CBM, GNDU, Punjabi University, Patiala and Panjab University, Chandigarh from where the Corporate Databases like Prowess and Capitacharts as well as a number of online subscribed sites were accessed. I would also like to thank several anonymous reviewers for their help and constructive comments that improved the quality and acceptability of my published papers.

My heartfelt gratitude and thanks go out to all doctoral scholars connected currently or previously with the Department of CBM especially Simran Nanda, Dr. Poonam Sharma, Dr. Pooja Malhotra, Dr. Shweta Gupta, Dr. Shefali Sharma, Dalwinder Kaur, Deepak Devgan, Renu Sharma, Dr. Kapil Gupta, Rajwant Kaur, Kamal Preet Kaur, Reena Kohli, Dr. Shikha Sehgal, Harpreet Dusanjh and Ranjit Kaur for their friendship and warm support in the past five years. My utmost gratitude also goes to Mr. Nitin for his guidance in statistical analysis of my research work. I also owe a huge debt of gratitude to all my friends in Punjabi University, Patiala who were instrumental in the success of my visit to their place. It was the huge assistance of all my friends and colleagues that enabled me to complete this thesis and have a wonderful time along the way.

I am forever grateful to my grandmother, whose blessings, foresight and values paved the way for a privileged and blessed life. At the moment, I am writing about my parents, for the first time in my life, I am speechless! I can barely find the words to express all the wisdom, love and support you have given to me. You are the people in this world I would give my life for. I love you more than you will ever know!

Words will never fully describe what my sisters and jiju mean to me. You always told me not to give up on my dreams and that everything that’s good takes time. I guess now is the time for all the good! I thank you from the bottom of my heart, for your visits, our talks and our closeness. Your influences on my life are everlasting!

For my younger brother Rahul, I would simply say, “Prayers are never useless”. You mean the world to me. My heartfelt thanks also go to Nishtha, Lakshya and Khyati for giving me immense happiness and joy which helped me in coming out of many frustrating moments during my PhD research. Last but not the least, I must thank two angels of my life i.e. Usha Verma and Kamal Gandhi for their motherly love and plenty of moments that we spent together!

Lastly, I offer my regards and blessings to all of those who supported me in any respect during the completion of my PhD Research. Thank you all!

Sincerely,
Sweety
