NOTES

1 Diaspora-“The word “diaspora” was first used by historians and social scientists to refer to the dispersal of the Jews from Palestine following their defeat by the Romans in the year A.D.70. . . . As such, the concept is now generalised to associate with any population which has migrated from its country of origin and settled in a foreign land. In addition, the settled groups maintain continuity as a community with their homeland, which they call their natal heritage.” (Iroegbu)
