References:

27. Canadian Welfare Council (1968), A Study of Family Desertion in Canada, Ottawa.

36. Chowdhury and Bhuiya (2001), A Study Assessing the Effects of a Credit-based, Income-generating Program on Participants’ Emotional Well-being in Bangladesh.

38. Damle, Y.B. (1957), Divorce in Poona District, Society in India.

45. Dr. Sanjay (2012), Abandoned Women- Her Problems and Measures, Indian Journal of Applied Research, Volume: 2, Issue: 2, November, ISSN - 2249-555X.

56. Fonseca (1966), Counselling for Marital Happiness, Bombay: Mantakal.

References

79. Ibrahim Abdel hamid (1956), Dissolution of Marriage in Islamic law, Vol. III, The Islamic Culture Centre,

81. Institute for Human Development (2008), A Baseline Survey of Minority Concentration Districts of India, Kalaburagi (Karnataka), Government of India and ICSSR.

97. Karnataka (Census 2001 highlights)

130. Manu Smriti, Cited in Carol S. Coonrod, “Chronic Hunger and the Status of Women in India,” op. cit.

References

159. Padmasini, V. (2003), Growing Divorce Rate in India. South Asian Women’s Forum. 10 March.

178. Ranjana Kumari (1989), Brides are not for Burning: Dowry Victims in India, Radiant, New Delhi.

180. Ravinder Kaur, Naginder Kaur and Harpreet Kaur (2010), Psycho - social Problems of Women Teachers Working in Schools and Colleges of Punjab, E-journal of All
References

195. Sen, Purna (2003), op. Cit

199. Shamita Das Dasgupta and Urjasi Rudra (2009), Transnational Abandonment of South Asian Women, A New Face of Violence against Women, published by Manvi Inc.

223. The Causes of Divorce/Separation and its effects on Children, Women and Men

References

Webiliography:

References

A Study on Psycho-Social and Economic Status of Deserted Women in Gulbarga District of Karnataka