APPENDIX V

EDITIONS AND TRANSLATIONS

A - EDITIONS

2. Markandeya-Purāṇa with a Sanskrit Commentary called 'Dipikā' on Deī-mahātmya by Shantanu Uddharana Cakravarti, published by Venkateshvar Press, Bombay, Samvat 1967; 1832 A.D.
3. Markandeya-Purana edited by K. M. Banerjea, Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1862 A.D.

6. Pargiter F. E. often refers in his English translation of the Markandeya-Purana to the Poona Edition of the Markandeya-Purana (pp.

B - TRANSLATIONS

The MKP is translated into various languages as follows:

I. English:

1. The Markandeya-Purana translated by into English
by Fredric Eden Pargiter, Bibliotheca Indica, Calcutta, 1904 A.D.

2. The Markandeya-Purana translated into English
   by Charu Chandra Mukarjea, published by Prosunno
   Coomar Sen and printed by Girish Chandra
   Chakravari, Deva Press, 61, Mirzapur Street,
   Calcutta, 1893 A.D.

3. The Markandeya-Purana translated into English by
   M. N. Dutta, Calcutta.

4. Pargiter F. E. refers in his English translation of the Markandeya-Purana (referred to above) to an English translation of the Markandeya-Purana by
   Dr. Banerjea.¹

II Gujarati:

1. The Markandeya-Purana translated into Gujarati by Shastri Tuljashankar Dhirajama Pandya, published by Balashankar Dhirajama Pandya, Dharmika
   Granthamala, Granth Sixth, 1936 A.D.

¹ Op. Cit., p. 24, note, etc.
2. The Markandeya-Purāṇa translated into Gujarati verse by Mahakavi Premananda published with annotations by Haragovind Dwarakadas Kantawala and Nathashankar Punjashankar Shastri, Pracīna Kavya Mala or old Gujarati Poetical series, Vols. XVI - XX, Baroda, 1890-1891 A.D.

III Hindi:

1. The Markandeya-Purāṇa translated into Hindi by Pandit Kanaiyalal S. Mishra. For details vide 'A'.

IV Tamil:

1. V. R. R. Dikshitar notes in his article on "The Purāṇas - a Study" that the Markandeya-Purāṇa has been translated into Tamil.²